NEW YORK MAYOR'S SINGLE TAX REFORM PLAN STIRS BOSTON

State Tax Commissioner Trefry Declares Personal Levy Works All Right in Massachusetts.

OPINION IS DIVIDED

Mr. Fillebrown Lauds the Idea and Mayor Fitzgerald States That He'll Take Up Matter Later On.

The news from New York that Mayor Gaynor favors the abolishment of personal taxation and the substitution therefor of a modified form of the single tax—the reform advocated by Henry George—is received in Boston today with mingled expressions of delight and disfavor.

Charles B. Fillebrown, for 12 years the president of the Massachusetts Single Tax League, on hearing of the despatch exclaimed: "Mayor Gaynor is a public benefactor, and so is any newspaper that spreads the good news."

State Tax Commissioner William D. T. Trefry voiced his disapproval. Mayor Fitzgerald admitted Boston is in need of somewhat similar reform.

Mayor Fitzgerald touched briefly on the proposition. He declared that while Boston is not as badly off in the matter of personal tax levy as New York, matters are badly mixed up here and something should be done. He said that the law was very lax until last year when a commission was appointed to look up the matter of personal tax and the law even as it is at present is not adequate to furnish the proper protection to all classes. He said that a little later he would give his personal attention to the personal tax proposition and go before the Legislature in an endeavor to get some kind of a fair adjustment.

State Tax Commissioner Trefry said Chairman Purdy of the New York taxation board expressed his tax views when he appeared before the special commission on taxation, of which Mr. Trefry was a member last summer.

"Here in Massachusetts," said Mr. Trefry, "there is no great trouble in collecting the taxes on personal property, in fact $14,160,319 was collected last year without an appreciable amount of cost. Apparently in New York the system of swearing off personal property has been allowed to grow, while in this state it has not been allowed to do so. In fact, Massachusetts has established the reputation of being the foremost state in this country in these matters."

With a personal property valued at over $856,000,000, Mr. Trefry thinks it would be a sad lack of appreciation to allow it to escape taxation. Again, he said, there are comparatively few cases where people swear off property to any great extent. The present system is firmly established here, is popularly recognized, and he doubts if any advocacy of such a position as the New York mayor proposes would gain any foothold in this state.

FIRST RESIGNATION UNDER NEW REGIME RECEIVED BY MAYOR

The first resignation to be received at the mayor's office was that of Fred S. Gore as commissioner of penal institutions, who was appointed by Mayor Hibbard to succeed Vernon Skinner a few months ago. Mr. Gore sent his resignation voluntarily to the mayor this morning, but it will not be acted on immediately, because his honor desires to look the field over very carefully that he may be sure to pick the right man for the place.

William Boudrot, former secretary to Mayor Hibbard, who was made deputy commissioner of penal institutions, with a salary of $3500, was today transferred to the probation office at Deer

PLEASANT VOCATIONS.

A car conductor's lot must be
As pleasant as a rhyme,
Because his walk in life, you see,
Is riding all the time.

A barber ought to carry through
His purpose as he plans
Since it is plain that he can do
His head work with his hands.

Musicians ought not care to shirk,
For it is plain as day
That though their playing may be work,
Yet all their work is play.

LITERARY NOTE.

Northern—Is "The Last of the Mohicans" a shoemaker's story?

South—No, I think it was made by a Cooper.

The French critics say that Rostand's "Chantecler" is a most delightful play, "but," they asked at the end of the first performance, "what is it all about?" Clever, subtle Rostand! He means to make the public witness it the second, third or fourth time in order that it may find out.

THERE'S A REASON.

The motor men know
Just why it is so,
As you've found, if you've ever inquired,
Why the auto, of course,
Unlike the poor horse,
Goes best when it's thoroughly tired.

BECAUSE OF THE BOYCOTT.

West—Yes; but though you pine for pork that's not the kind of pork-you-pine for.

Insatiate Peary! Now, 'tis said,
He'll try for one more goal,
By reaching it he hopes to spread

But soon, on aeroplanes, 'tis said,
They'll, likely, fly themselves instead.

ONE "OUT" ABOUT IT.

MINIMUM DUTIES TO SEVEN NATIONS

WASHINGTON—President Taft signed proclamations today granting the minimum tariff to Argentine, Brazil, Paraguay and Uruguay, Panama, Mexico and Liberia. These are the first proclamations to be issued in favor of any Latin-American country.

There is still much work ahead of the tariff board as only about 20 out of 100 countries and colonies have been disposed of. Of these France is giving the most trouble. It is not expected that there will be any serious difficulty in connection with the South American countries.

CHICAGO TO AID DANBURY HATTERS

CHICAGO—The Chicago Federation of Labor today called a special meeting for March 3 at which each member will be asked to contribute to a fund to be used not only to defend the treasury of the Danbury Hatters' union, but also to pay the $222,000 judgment if the courts of last resort make that necessary.

MR. HISGEN AGAIN URGES HIS "ANTI-DISCRIMINATION" BILL

Thomas L. Hisgen of West Springfield, one-time candidate for President of the United States, and independent oil dealer, was the star feature of today's hearing at the State House on his so-called "anti-discrimination" bill. Mr. Hisgen was the only advocate for the legislation, which he has brought before the Legislature for three previous years, who appeared to-day.

Mr. Hisgen gave a brief history of his bill in the Massachusetts Legislature and cited the remarks made by Speaker Walker before the business men of Newburyport in favor of the discouragement of industrial monopolies. He said that it was erroneous to lay the prevailing high prices at the door of extravagance or the plentiful supply of gold. Lack of honest competition, he declared, was the cause.

The law that he proposed, he said, had been enacted in 15 states in the Union and was working well in each of those states.

Former Atty.-Gen. Herbert Parker was the first to speak in opposition to the bill. The intent, purpose and effect of this bill, he said, was to bring a temporary benefit to a few concerns but the permanent impairment of the great public interest.

Jesup Statue Unveiling Today

American Museum of Natural History to Honor Founder at Fortieth Anniversary

STATUE OF MORRIS K. JESUP.

Massive figure of Carrara marble shows the benefactor in one of the happiest poses for which he was noted. It is the work of William Couper of New York.

NEW YORK—At 4 o'clock this afternoon there will be unveiled a life-sized statue of the late Morris Ketchum Jesup, founder of the American Museum of Natural History, in the foyer of the museum building in this city. Joseph H. Choate, former ambassador to Great Britain and with J. P. Morgan, the only survivor of the original board of trustees of the museum, will deliver an address and the statue will be accepted by Mayor Gaynor on behalf of the city and museum.

Commander Robert E. Peary, who wished to attend the dedication, was unable to do so on account of a lecture engagement in Providence, R. I.

Commissioner Charles B. Hover, park commissioner of Manhattan, in whose charge the museum building is, will also be a speaker. The cornerstone of the museum building was laid by President U. S. Grant in 1874 and it today ranks as one of the foremost museums in the world. Some idea of how the premises have expanded to meet the growing needs of the museum are seen by the accompanying pictures, one showing the museum building in 1881 when Mr. Jesup assumed the presidency and the other showing it as it looks today.

The museum was founded in 1869,

BARON KIKUCHI SEES HARVARD AND WILL TALK TO STUDENTS

Baron Dairoku Kikuchi, president of the University of Kioto, who is in Boston for a week, will visit today historic places in Cambridge, inspect Harvard University and speak before the Harvard students this evening in the Fogg Art Museum on "The National Development of Japan."

Afterward there will be a reception by the Japan Club of Harvard in the Harvard Union.

Baron Kikuchi lunched today with Secretary Jerome D. Greene of Harvard and will be his guest for several days at his home, 38 Quincy street, Cambridge. Prof. Albert Bushnell Hart will also entertain him for a few days.

In discussing "The Relations between Japan and the United States" before the Economic Club of Boston at the American House Tuesday evening, Baron Kikuchi insisted that Japan has never violated her pledges in regard to the open door in Manchuria; that there wouldn't be any such thing as an open door in Manchuria or China if Japan had not been victorious in the war with Russia, and finally that the proposition of Secretary Knox for the neutrality of the Manchurian railway could not be entertained by the Japanese government, and had the proposition come from any other nation than the United States it would have been regarded as an unfriendly act.

On Monday, Feb. 14, Baron Kikuchi will go to Manchester, N. H., to speak before the Economic Club of that city. Returning to Boston on the following day he will be tendered a complimentary dinner by the East Asiatic Society at the Hotel Lenox in the evening.

The baron will attend the lecture by Commander Robert E. Peary on his trip to the north pole to be given in Symphony hall, Thursday evening, Feb. 17. The next day he will go to New York to attend a dinner in honor of the Japanese ambassador to the United States.

TRIO OF STEAMERS REACHES PORT WITH VALUABLE GOODS

A trio of big steamers arrived in the harbor early today bringing valuable cargoes, two of them from transatlantic ports, and one from Cuba.

The second steamer of the Holland-Amerika line's service between this port and Rotterdam, the steamship Sloterdyk, Capt. J. Metz, came in with a 1200-ton cargo, and went to Mystic wharves to discharge. The steamer will take out about half of her freight here and the remainder will be taken to New York, whence the vessel will proceed after discharging her Boston consignments and loading outward bound freight.

The other transatlantic arrival was the Red Star liner Menominee, Capt. S. Anfindsen, from Antwerp, with 16 cabin passengers and 3000 tons of general cargo. The liner berthed at Hoosac docks, Charlestown, where longshoremen are now engaged in breaking out her freight, which includes 1098 bales of wool, 1340 salted calfskins, 682 cases of glass, 814 tons of steel scrap, 2252 bags of fertilizer, 574 bags of glue stock and a varied and large assortment of merchandise.

The last steamer to put in an appearance was the Magda, Captain Henlop, from Cuban ports, with 22,000 bags of sugar to the American Sugar Refining Company. The steamer anchored in the stream to await a berth.

The sugar in the little steamer's hold amounts to more than 7,000,000 pounds, in round numbers 7,260,000, or 3630 tons, enough to give two pounds of the sweet stuff to every man, woman and child in the commonwealth of Massachusetts with enough over to give each inhabitant of Boston an extra pound.

CONSULT MR. TAFT TODAY ON PROGRAM OF ROOSEVELT FETE

Republican Leaders of New York Have Permission of Ex-President to Arrange a Big Home-Coming.

NATIONAL IN SCOPE

WASHINGTON—President Taft is being consulted today by John A. Stewart, president of the New York state league of Republican clubs, and a representative of the Republican Club of New York city regarding the home-coming celebration to be planned in honor of ex-President Roosevelt.

A cablegram was received in New York Tuesday from Mr. Roosevelt accepting the proposition of the Republican Club of that city to form a national reception committee, with representatives from all over the country, to meet Mr. Roosevelt on his arrival in New York harbor some time between June 15 and 21 next.

President Taft was the first man to know of the despatch of a cablegram to Mr. Roosevelt, and was also among the first to learn of the reply. The President is giving his hearty support to the plan for a nation-wide reception, and his wishes and ideas will be consulted in the formulation of the program.

It has not yet been determined whether or not President Taft will be able to take any part in the reception. He has promised to go to Alaska the latter part of May, provided Congress has adjourned by that time, and if he should take the trip he would not return to the states until some time in July.

Mr. Stewart, who is a close friend of Mr. Roosevelt, in a statement regarding the ex-President's future, said:

"Before he left for his African hunting trip Colonel Roosevelt told me that he would not be a candidate for United States senator from New York, that he would not think of becoming a candidate for mayor of New York, that he would not be a candidate for President in 1912.

"Unless he has changed his mind in the last four weeks he as strongly in favor of the renomination of Mr. Taft as he was of his nomination in 1908. His friendship for the President is as close and as cordial now as at any time.

"The ex-President's only ambition is to become a useful private citizen and to exercise the inestimable privilege of a private citizen to speak his opinions and voice his convictions. I do not believe he could be induced to run for any office.

"Certainly he would not think of running for Congress with a view of becoming speaker of the House. There will be a great demand that Colonel Roosevelt on his return shall use his influence to reorganize the Republican party of New York state, which without question is sadly in need of reorganization."

OPPONENTS ASSAIL TAXING OF INCOMES AT HEARING TODAY

Opponents to the proposed income tax amendment to the federal constitution made a strong showing at the hearing given today by the Massachusetts legislative committee on federal relations.

The hearing opened with George L. Barnes, representing the Boston Chamber of Commerce, as first speaker. He offered the resolution recently adopted by that body, explaining that it was adopted by an overwhelming vote of the 400 or 500 members present, and that the motion to reconsider was promptly voted down.

The next speaker was Horatio G. Curtis, president of the Old Boston National Bank, who said that the original framers of the constitution considered it quite unfit that those who could not pay a tax should impose a tax on those who could pay and that this idea is as odious today as it was then.

John C. Cobb, the next speaker, said:

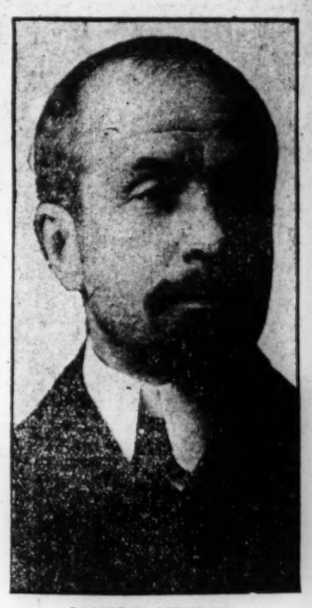

"I think most men have studied into the question of taxation and agree that an income tax is economically sound and may well be considered in the framing of tax laws. In fact, I favor a state income tax. I believe that certain classes of property can most equitably pay their share through an income tax, but I do not believe in the federal government entering the field of direct taxation which has heretofore been consistently and logically left for state and local revenue."

Mr. Cobb quoted the closing passages of Governor Hughes' special message on this subject to the Legislature of New York on Jan. 5, 1910, in which Governor Hughes gave his reasons for opposing the income tax amendment. Mr. Cobb also quoted in this connection from the papers of Austen Fox of New York and also from the remarks of Justice Brewer of the United States supreme court.

DECLARE NEW BILL VINDICATES ACTION OF MR. ROOSEVELT

Measure Allowing President to Withdraw Public Lands, Just Reported, Pointed to as Significant.

CASTS BRIGHT LIGHT

WASHINGTON—The wholesale withdrawal of public lands by former President Roosevelt seems today in fair way to be vindidated.

This is the real significance of the recent action of the Senate committee on public lands which has reported a bill stating specifically that the President may withdraw land from the operation of the land laws, and may keep them withdrawn from entry indefinitely, unless Congress takes contrary action.

The majority report from the Senate committee bases this action upon the belief that the President already has precisely the same authority. At present the power is granted in a variety of old statutes, and is recognized by implication in others.

It is the judgment of the majority of the Senate committee that the bill which has been reported merely sets forth clearly, and in a single statute, the plain intent of the present law. And if the bill is enacted into law by Congress, it will be because of the definite opinion of the majority in Congress that no new power is being granted.

This situation apparently constitutes a negation of the legal accuracy of Mr. Ballinger. He entered the cabinet with the plainly defined purpose of hewing to the line in administering the law. He disagreed with the doctrine, held by Messrs. Roosevelt, Pinchot and Garfield,

SENATE HONORS MR. PEARY TODAY

WASHINGTON—The Senate today passed a bill to make Commander Robert E. Peary, discoverer of the north pole, a rear admiral on the retired list.

Senator Hale (Rep., Me.) reported the bill favorably from the committee on naval affairs. An amendment was adopted providing that Mr. Peary should receive the highest pay accorded the grade of rear admiral retired. The measure was then passed without discussion or comment. It is expected that the House will take similar action.

FACTORY EDUCATION CONSIDERED FUTURE NEW ENGLAND NEED

James P. Munroe, Chairman Chamber of Commerce Education Committee, Advises Industrial Training.

PRAISE FOR YANKEE

Problem of Next Dozen Years Asserted to Be Realization of Necessity for More Technical Knowledge.

James P. Munroe, chairman of the committee of education of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, and recently appointed executive director of the "Boston-1915" movement, believes that New England is just coming to realize what an asset she has in the Yankee wisdom which has heretofore kept her manufactures to the fore. He supports the theory that if intensive manufacturing and education go hand in hand in the future New England will enter upon an era of higher development, of a finer, more artistic character than ever before.

Mr. Munroe maintains that New England manufacturers and educators must be made to see the importance of cooperation, and that this will be the preeminent problem of the next dozen years. In support of this optimistic view of commercial and industrial prospects Mr. Munroe says:

"Instead of being about to say farewell to her greatness as a manufacturing community, New England, I believe, is just at the threshold of her highest possibilities. And she is to enter upon this new career through the application of technical knowledge, as well as of common sense, to the problems of production.

"There was a time when it seemed absurd to try to make a New England farm compete with the rich prairies of the middle West; but now we know that intensive farming will convert even a swamp or an 'abandoned farm' into something better, because surer, than a copper mine. To compete with those regions which have the advantage of coal and ores and cotton, of sheep and cattle, and of lax labor laws, New England must develop, along with intensive farming, intensive manufacturing. And she must develop this intensive manufacturing by applying exact knowledge to her manufactures and sense to the education of her boys and girls.

"There is a good deal of doubt about the profit of converting pig iron into structural iron, when the ore and coal must be brought from Pennsylvania and the finished product must be sent back to Philadelphia or New York. But there is no doubt of the profit when a bit of steel costing a few hundred cents is converted into delicate tools or mechanisms worth many hundreds of dollars. And there is still greater certainty of profit when to the value created by skilful mechanicians is added the even greater value given by artistic taste.

"The manufacturing future of New England cannot be in doubt as long as she sticks to the principle that education and industry must go hand in hand. That was the secret of her manufacturing prosperity in the days when she had little industrial competition; it must be the watchword now that she has to meet competition not only in the national markets but in the markets of the world.

"Fine goods, artistic goods, well-made goods can hold their own against the fiercest competition; for to make them demands skill, and one cannot buy skill at wholesale. It has to be created by long years of education; and in education New England has a very long lead. She can keep that lead, however, not by boasting about her past, but only by hustling toward her future. And that future calls for five main things: the scientific utilization of her natural resources, the elimination of industrial wastes, widespread training for industrial efficiency, the cultivation of manufacturing taste, and the application of those higher and fuller resources to the production principally of really A1 goods.

"We don't half know, much less do we half make use of, our waterpower, ocean frontage, nearness to European and Canadian markets and many other special advantages. We have hardly begun to study the wastes that any mechanical or chemical expert can show us we are permitting every day. We haven't begun to get out of our naturally bright boys and girls a tenth part of their real efficiency as workers and citizens, which the right sort of education would produce. We hardly understand the tremendous added value to production given by artistic taste, and we are prone to lament the passing of this coarse industry and that, without realizing that the decline of every rough manufacture is a blessing provided it gives place to a finer industry dependent not upon bulk of raw material but upon skill and knowledge.

"New England can be, if she seizes her opportunity, the Paris, the Geneva, the Sheffeld, the Nottingham, the Chemnitz, the Potsdam—in short, the sum total of all the 'fine manufacture' cities of the old world, if she applies to modern industry the same intellect and vigor and Yankee 'gumption' which for nearly three centuries she has had at her command."

Government to Be Asked to Indorse Railway Lines

(Special to The Monitor.)

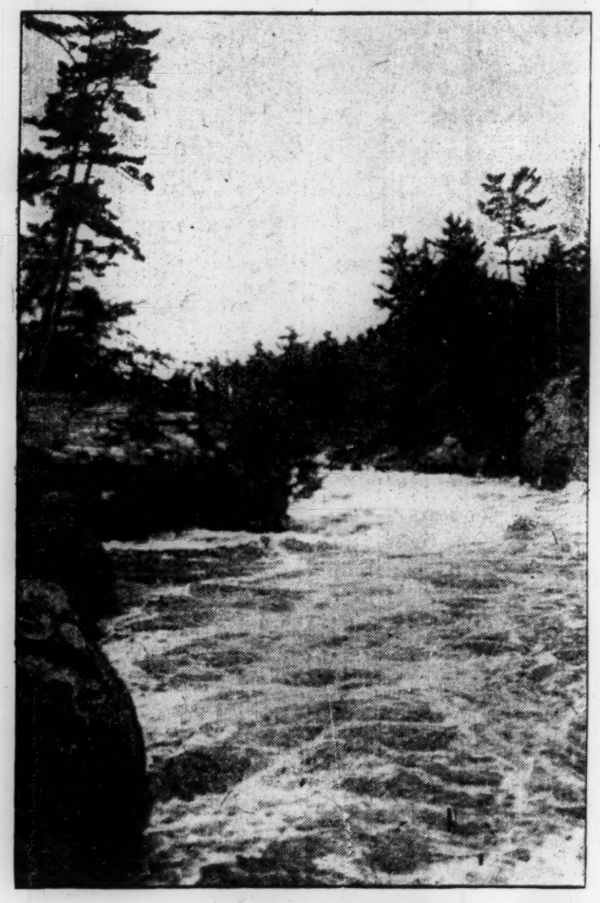

OTTAWA, Ont. The subject of railway construction which will connect the wheat country of Canada with Hudson bay received special attention in the Commons during the presentation of the estimates and reports of the minister of railways and canals. He announced that the government intends asking Parliament to indorse the undertaking this session and provision for preliminary expenditure has been made in the supplementary estimates which will be brought down later in the session.

The line will approximate 500 miles in length. Preliminary surveys have already been made and the engineer-in-charge has reached the conclusion that Port Nelson will be a better terminal at the Hudson bay end than will Ft. Churchill. The distance would be 60 60 miles less, and it is also the general opinion that the harbor there is free from obstructions for a longer period during the year.

It is the intention to have the other terminal in Saskatchewan at Le Pas on the Saskatchewan river, about 50 miles from its entry into Lake Winnipegosis. The proposal meets with decided opposition from influential members on the Conservative side, who consider a much more feasible solution of the wheat transportation problem will be the construction of the Georgian bay canal.

The railway will be exceedingly costly, traversing almost unexplored and entirely unsettled country and many years must elapse before any local business could possibly be developed along its course, owing to climatic conditions mitigating against settlement.

Hon. J. Haggart, ex-minister of railways, contended that the cost of railway construction in unbroken wilderness cannot be at all accurately estimated. The present transcontinental line was promised to the people at a rough estimate of $13,000,000; the country now faces the expenditure of approximately $250,000,000 upon it. He points out that the canal project has been carefully estimated. Engineers have not hesitated to present big figures for its construction cost, but it will have no unpleasant surprises to offer later on. It passes through settled country where every mile of its construction will add to the wealth of the people in direct contact with it—through development of manufacturing interests, owing to its power provision, water conservation and economical transportation facilities, and in Mr. Taggart's estimation it will provide cheaper carriage of the wheat than could be offered by the proposed railway. It will also directly benefit a greater proportion of the people of the whole Dominion, according to continuous line of waterway communication between the far eastern provinces and the fast developing wheat lands of the interior.

PREMIER DEFEATED AND CHAMBER IS PROROGUED

(Special to The Monitor.)

VIENNA—Following an overwhelming ministerial defeat on a motion of no confidence proposed by M. Justh, the premier, Count Khuen Hedervary, declared that the crown must decide whether Parliament would be dissolved or the cabinet resign, and then, producing a royal decree, prorogued the Chamber until March 24. The majority against the government was composed of the Justh Kossuth and Clerical parties, the Andrassy Liberals abstaining from voting.

After the reading of the royal rescript and the government and the greater part of the Audrassy party had withdrawn, the majority adopted a motion by the independent deputy, Count Batthyany, declaring the government to be unconstitutional and forbidding the payment of taxes. Count Apponyi supported the resolution and denounced the prorogation as unconstitutional. The resolution was adopted against the wish of Count Andrassy and the Chamber adjourned.

LONDONERS HOPE TO SEE TAX REDUCTION

(Special to The Monitor.)

LONDON—The quinquennial reassessment of London takes place this year. Owing to a variety of causes a great number of people maintain that they are very much over-assessed The rapid increase of the motor traffic, and especially of the motor buses, is doubtless the main cause of this complaint, for one of the principal stipulations made to the house agent by those in search of houses in London is that the house must not be on a road down which the motor buses run. Those who consider themselves to be over-assessed have now an opportunity of making a claim for a reduction. The authorities dealing with this question will undoubtedly have a great number of such claims to consider.

DECIDE TO BUILD ELECTRIC RAILWAY

LONDON—It is reported that two bills dealing with the reconstruction of Baker street station and the building of an electric railway between London and Waltham Abbey were approved by the shareholders of the Metropolitan Railway a few days ago. Referring to the subject the chairman pointed out that the running of through trains from the northern extension line to the city through the single line at Baker street, had proved so successful that it was absolutely necessary to construct a double line and so enable them to increase the number of trains.

The proposed electric railway from London to Waltham Abbey will, it is believed, be a joint undertaking between the Great Eastern Railway Company and the Metropolitan Railway. The idea of the cooperation of the two companies was approved, and, it is said that the terms are now being negotiated.

GERMAN NAVY BASE AT KIEL CANAL WEST END IS NOW PLANNED

BERLIN—Plans for the new naval base of the German empire at the western end of the Kaiser Wilhelm canal, at Bruensbuttel, have been finished and work will be begun immediately. The cost will be about $7,500,000.

When the work has been finally completed, which will require many years, it will be the greatest naval base on the North sea. The new base will rank with Kiel, with its great natural harbor at the northeast end of the canal on the Baltic. In 1908 the improvement of the small harbor of Bruensbuttel was planned, but the matter was not made public. At the time an appropriation of $62,500 was made for the preliminary work. The harbor will extend from Bruensbuttel northeastward to a small lake which connects with the canal. It will be divided into harbors for the largest warships and for merchant vessels respectively, while the plans call for a general depth of 11 meters.

At Blangenmoor, a small village on the canal, a large coal storing dock will be constructed, while at Ostermoor there will be built a harbor for the torpedo boat flotilla, one of the largest torpedo boat harbors in Germany. Here also will be located a great floating dock. As the sea harbor will be 23 sea miles distant inland from the mouth of the Elbe it will afford the greatest protection for the navy, while the existence of the Kaiser Wilhelm canal will always afford communication with the Baltic or the North sea.

The construction of the new naval base carries immediately with it the deepening of the Kaiser Wilhelm canal throughout the entire length, making it navigable by the largest German battleships now existing or to be built within the next decade.

Parliament Has Problem In Rearrangement of Seats

(Special Correspondence of The Monitor.)

LONDON—The end is drawing near. The result of the general election will soon be known and the members, at present scattered all over the country, will return to take their seats in the House of Commons. In the meanwhile the cleaning and preparation of the House goes on, a large number of men being at work.

When the House meets, the question as to how the parties of the new Parliament will be distributed throughout the House will have to be decided. While there are 670 members of Parliament, seats are provided for no more than 476. The floor stretching from the bar to the speaker's chair, divides the House, the members facing each other, the government sitting to the right and the opposition to the left of the speaker. The Nationalists and Labor members sit below the gangway, which cuts through the benches at right angles to the floor.

Owing to the addition to the Unionist party of some 100 or so members, some new arrangement will be inevitable, and it may be possible that the front seat below the gangway, which has up to the present been monopolized by the Labor members, will be occupied by the later additions to the Unionist party.

COMMISSION TO START FARM

(Special to The Monitor.)

COLON, Canal Zone—The steamship Cartago, on her voyage early in January, brought over 200 Brown Leghorn hens and cocks to form the nucleus of a poultry farm which the isthmian canal commission intends to establish at Ancon, to supply some of the institutions of the zone with eggs. From 800 to 1000 eggs are consumed daily, and it is estimated that 1500 hens will be required to supply this demand. An incubator has been ordered to hatch chickens for increasing the flock.

CHOOSE SITE FOR TERMINALS.

MONTREAL, Que.—The site has been chosen and the plans prepared for the Montreal terminals of the Canadian Northern. In making the announcement W. D. Barclay, manager of the Canadian Northern railway, Quebec, said that the site would be one of the finest in the city and that the terminals would cost about $5,000,000.

MANY STUDENTS FLOCK TO PARIS FOR INAUGURATION

(Special Correspondence of The Monitor.)

PARIS — The inauguration of the "Students' House" (before the rising of the Seine disturbed conditions), was the occasion of a series of fetes rivaling in brilliancy and variety those which usually attend the visits of royalty. Student corporations from all over Europe flocked to Paris. An entire week was devoted to an elaborate program of merrymaking, sightseeing speechmaking and more serious reunions.

The festivities began with a giant reception held at the mayoralty house of the fifth ward. The sight was a picturesque one. All the students wore their national costume and each group carried its own ensigns and banners. The round caps (berets) which are about all that remains of the quaint dress of the Latin quarter collegians, were easily eclipsed by bright-colored kepis and plumed toques. Bohemian students in their tchamaras rubbed elbows with Hungarians in long fur coats and velvet knickerbockers. The Belgian delegates wore flowing ties embroidered in silver and red. Denmark, Sweden and Norway were also represented.

Not all the time has been devoted to merrymaking. During the inaugural week the fourth congress of French students met at the Sorbonne to discuss matters relating to their common welfare.

The council of the International Federation of Students also held reunions at the headquarters of the League for Instruction in Favor of Peace, presided over by M. D'Estournelles de Constant.

SHIP SCRAP IRON FROM CANAL ZONE

(Special to The Monitor.)

ANCON, Canal Zone—Scrap iron and steel gathered from the debris of the canal works constitute the bulk of cargoes being shipped to the United States on the return voyages of the cement hauling ships Ancon and Cristobal. This scrap has been accumulating ever since the American administration of the canal construction work began, and is all material which had its origin in the United States. Thus it is differentiated from the scrap which is of French origin which has to pay a duty on entry into the United States of $1 for each short ton (2000 pounds), which money is returned to the canal funds for meeting the expenses of construction. All scrap, both of French and American origin, which is available for work in the zone, is shipped to Gorgona to the foundry to be worked over. The residue is sent by rail to Cristobal for loading upon the steamers. It includes car wheels and a miscellaneous assortment of castings and other odds and ends.

SEDITIOUS PRESS LAW FOR INDIA

CALCUTTA— The press bill, designed to suppress the dissemination of anarchistic literature, was passed by the imperial council Tuesday.

The measure requires the proprietors of newspapers and job presses to deposit with the government a sum of money which will be forfeited if the depositor is convicted of an attempt to incite to murder or sedition or to influence the public against law and order.

GOVERNMENT MAY PLANT ORCHARDS

VICTORIA, B. C. — The provincial board of agriculture will recommend to the government the establishment of exhibition orchards at various points on the island and throughout the mainland. It was decided also to have a representative in the Northwest markets for the purpose of inspecting the fruit shipped there from British Columbia.

LORD KITCHENER FOR VICEROY.

LONDON—It is reported that Lord Minto, who will retire from his post as viceroy of India before the end of the year, will be succeeded by Field Marshal Lord Kitchener.

LONDON LETTER

(Special to The Monitor.)

LONDON—From the Board of Trade returns on "tramways and light railways," published in a White paper recently, it appears that since 1878 the route length of line open for traffic increased from 269 miles to 2526 miles; the capital expenditure from £4,207,350 to £71,023,239; while the number of passengers carried has increased from 146,000,000 to 2,660,000,000 per year and the net receipts from £230,956 to £4,595,779.

Last year the route mileage of electric lines was 2286 miles out of a total of 2464, while this year it is 2360 miles out of 2526. The total number of passengers carried in the year is, it appears, equal to about 60 times the estimated population of the United Kingdom.

LONDON LECTURER FAVORS MANUFACTURE OF "OLD" PLATE

Omar Ramsden in an address to the members of the Royal Society of Arts stated that he was in favor of beaten silver and gold rather than of cast work. The true silversmith of today, he said, as in the best Gothic times, was a beater of metals. The Greek and early Roman work was, so far as he could remember, all beaten. Referring to the hall mark, the lecturer asked if it were not for that sign how many keen collectors would pay big prices for what were after all frequently far from being works of art. Mr. Ramsden pointed out also that it was only when the great designers and architects began to have their designs engraved and published in books that the silversmiths took to copying. Then all Europe began to produce little temples for salt cellars; bigger temples for chalices, and all architecture in little, all being cast.

REGARDS PARLIAMENT WITH INCREASING FAITH

H. Rose delivered a lecture recently at the Working Mens College, Camden Town, on "Twenty Years in the Press Gallery." Mr. Rose said that after 20 years in the gallery he felt impelled to regard Parliament not with decreasing but with increasing faith.

Referring to the various leading statesmen of his time, Mr. Rose declared that Disraeli was a statesman of serious purpose very much in advance of his contemporaries, Granville was generally esteemed as one of the safest and most conscientious of foreign secretaries, Gladstone was the greatest orator he had ever been privileged to hear, while with the exception of Lord Beaconsfield Lord Salisbury had no equal in the House of Lords.

With regard to Lord Rosebery's government, the inner history, he pointed out, had still to be written. Referring to Mr. Chamberlain, he said that his great characteristic was his ability to say clearly whatever he wanted to say. Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman was, in the opinion of the lecturer, a remarkable personality, and could never be accused of intriguing for his own personal advancement. Mr. Asquth owed his great success to grit. The lecture was illustrated by a number of lantern slides.

SING SCOTTISH AIRS FOR CHARITY ON BURNS NIGHT

An audience, thoroughly representative of the Scottish element living in London, was as enthusiastic as ever in its appreciation of the Scottish airs included in the program of the concert given in Albert hall recently. The occasion was the annual charity concert given by the Scottish Clans Association in aid of the various London Scottish charities. Various songs by Burns, the national bard, the anniversary of whose birth was being celebrated, were also sung. Many of the audience donned their highland dress and listened with evident satisfaction to the items on the program, which included such familiar airs as "Scots Wha Hae" and the "Bonnie Wee Window," rendered by the London Scottish choir. Mme. Kirkby Lunn sang the well-known songs "Gala Water" and "Caller Herrin," while Charles Saunders sang "Annie Laurie," all of which were much appreciated.

Leading Events in Athletic World ◎ Syracuse Crew Outlook

SYRACUSE VARSITY HAS THREE VACANT POSITIONS TO FILL

Two of Last Year's Crew Have Graduated and Other Has Left College — Over Fifty Candidates.

SHIMER IS CAPTAIN

SYRACUSE, N. Y. — Active spring work has begun for the Syracuse 'varsity and freshman crews, as Coach James A. Ten Eyck has issued the call for candidates and 53 men have reported. This number will probably be doubled as has been the case in previous years. Of the men who have already come out about 20 are for the 'varsity eight-oared crew. There are but three empty seats in this shell, caused by the graduation of ex-Capt. W. C. Fisher '09, and E. O. Hemenway '09. The third vacant seat was occupied last year by Ward N. Gere '11, who is not in college this year. He stroked his freshman crew and rowed No. 4 on the 'varsity, being a good oarsman, whose place will be hard to fill.

The candidates for the varsity crews consist of last year's 'varsity four oared crew all of whom are in college except the two substitutes L. Bush '11 and H. H. Brown who graduated, and last year's freshman crew, all of whom are candidates except H. L. Cheney, who has left college. The five veterans of last year's 'varsity eight are out defending their seats against the new men. These five men are: Captain Mason C. Shimer '10, No. 6; B. J. Fisher '10, Bow; D. F. Putnam '11, No. 3; J. W. Guibord '11, No. 2; E. G. Champlin '11, stroke. Their substitutes, W. C. Pendill '10 and J. A. Rapelje '11, are also out. Both last years coxswain F. Eldredge '10, and his substitute, F. G. Smith '11, are in line for the seat as is H. H. Richardson '12, who steered the freshman last July.

All of last year's four-oared crew are out again this spring. Randolph B. Williams '11, who rowed No. 2, is a powerful oar and will prove a strong contender for a seat in the varsity eight. D. E. Banks '11, the stroke, who is now playing guard on the basketball team, is another good oarsman, as are K. T. Klock '11, bow, and Ray A. Peterson '10, who were the other men in the four-oared shell.

Several men of varsity caliber should come from the freshman crew. G. C. Babbitt '12 will probably be one of the best crew men of the squad. The other freshmen out for the crews are F. H. Buckley, H. R. Topping, A. J. Grimm, D. J. Frawley, H. S. Dodge and the substitutes E. L. Barron and W. H. Jennings.

Syracuse needs a good squad of oarsmen, as she faces a hard season. Annapolis is to be met in a two-mile race on the Severn river on May 21. For two successive years the Orange crews have defeated the navy and they are going to strive to win again in their third meeting. It has been announced in Toronto that the famous Argonaut crews of Canada are to race Syracuse on Lake Onondaga, the home of the Orange crews, but this has not been officially announced by the authorities here. The races at Poughkeepsie next June are regarded as the real test.

Coach James A. Ten Eyck, the famous veteran oarsman, although reticent as usual, is well pleased with the prospects. He said: "Syracuse will maintain its high standing on the waters if the men out for practise will show the kind of spirit they always have and stick to their work. The men who have reported are promising crew material, but I need more. All I ask is that they come out and work and I will do the rest."

FIRST VICTORY FOR HOCKEY CLUB

NEW YORK — The Hockey Club of New York, playing against the St. Nicholas seven, scored its first victory in the Amateur League championship series Tuesday night, the final score being 4 goals to 2. Weakened by the loss of three of their best players, the St. Nicholas seven was unable to repel the attack on their goal by the Hockey Club men. It was a scrimmage from start to finish, with no team play by either.

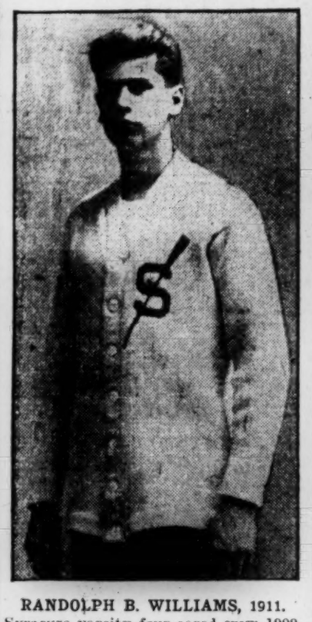

SCHLECHTER DRAWS AGAIN.

BERLIN—Dr. E. Lasker, chess champion, and Carl Schlechter of Vienna, challenger, concluded the ninth game of their match for the world's championship in this city Tuesday. Schlechter had the opening, and played throughout all the sessions required for the game with such care and precision that all efforts on the part of the champion to catch him unawares were of no avail. Eventually another draw, the eighth so far, was recorded. Schlechter has won one game, Dr. Lasker none.

FREEMAN BROWN CHAMPION.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—The chess championship of Brown University has been won by W. B. Freeman '10. By winning from Dawley '11, Monday afternoon, Freeman decided the tournament, for, although all the games have not yet been played, he has lost fewer games than any other contestant, and his lead cannot now be overtaken. The winner will have his name inscribed on the Rice chess table.

COLUMBIA TAKES FAST BASKETBALL GAME FROM YALE

New Haven College Five Forces New York Team to Best Form in Order to Win.

NEW YORK—Although defeated Yale held Columbia to an unexpectedly low score in their basketball game in the Morningside gymnasium Tuesday night, the final score being 29 to 21. More than 2500 people crowded every available corner of the space allotted to the spectators and cheered enthusiastically the spectacular plays made on either side.

The feature of the game was the accurate long-distance shots made by the local players. No position or angle, however unfavorable to cage the ball, seemed to be too difficult, and the Columbia team as a whole proved its unequaled skill in shooting.

WASHINGTON TO SEND CREW EAST

SEATTLE, Wash.—The race between the eight oared crews of Wisconsin and Washington, to be rowed at Madison some time in May probably, is assured by the favorable reply sent by Wisconsin's council to the Seattle management. E. H. Ten Eyck, who is temporary athletic director and permanent rowing coach at Wisconsin, sent to Seattle not long ago agreeing to a race.

Immediately thereafter a mass meeting was held at Washington and collecting begun to raise $1800 the trip will cost.

Out in Seattle they are talking of trying to work up interest in rowing races for middle western and far western crews, to be held annually at some place on the Mississippi, preferably Minneapolis. Of this the University of Washington Daily says:

"If the Middle Western Rowing Association is formed there will not be that element of formality which is exhibited at Poughkeepsie. There no one is welcome but those fortunate enough to receive a special invitation. It seems that the eastern association is a little too particular whom it invites. At Minneapolis or wherever the regattas would be held any college able would be quite welcome to enter a crew."

KEATING EQUALS A WORLD'S RECORD

ALBANY, N. Y.—At the athletic meet of company A of the second battalion, tenth regiment, national guard, in the Albany armory Tuesday night, N. F. Keating of the Irish-American Athletic Club of New York equaled the world's amateur record of 6 2-5 seconds in the 60-yard dash.

In the intercollegiate relay race of one mile the Dartmouth team defeated a team representing Hamilton. Time 3m. 44 3-5s.

Edward P. Carr of the Xavier Athletic Club of New York won the five-mile race in 24m. 26s.

SPANISH SONDER RACES ASSURED

Eastern Yacht Club Appoints International Committee to Handle Races in September —Elects Officers.

Formal action on the challenge sent by Spanish yachtsmen for a sonder class race with American boats off Marblehead next summer was taken by the Eastern Yacht Club at its annual meeting Tuesday when a committee was elected to have charge of the contests. The committee is composed of Commodore F. Lewis Clark, Vice-Commodore Robert Treat Paine, 2d, Rear Commodore Herbert M. Sears, Henry Howard, Charles Francis Adams 2d, Louis M. Clark and J. Louis Stackpole.

Officers of the club for the current year were elected as follows: F. Lewis Clark, commodore; Robert Treat Paine, 2d, vice-commodore; Herbert M. Sears, rear commodore; Henry Taggard, secretary; Patrick T. Jackson, treasurer; W. Starling Burgess, measurer; George A. Goddard and Frank B. McQuesten, members of the council at large; William L. Carlton, Louis M. Clark, Henry A. Morss, Stephen W. Sleeper and William B. Stearns, regatta committee; Arthur Adams, Charles P. Curtis, George Atkinson, Jr., and Augustus Hemenway, committee on admissions; Edward M. Beals, Frederic O. North, Parkman Dexter, William B. Revere and Daniel K. Snow, house committee.

The report of the secretary showed the club has a total membership of 692, a gain of 20 over last year. There are 321 yachts enrolled, made up as follows: Schooners 48, sloops and yawls 65, steamers 50, launches 58, and sailboats under 30-feet waterline 100.

The report of the German-American race committee for 13 trial races and six final races showed that the trial races cost the club about $6 a race, and the average for the races for the cups was close to $48. This leaves a small unexpended balance from the appropriations and contributions.

The club voted to award a bronze medal to the winner of the Puritan cup, which is raced for in the annual regatta each year, as a permanent trophy. The cup itself has to be given up each time it is won. The medals will be given to past winners of the trophy.

The Spanish challenge which was accepted was sent by the secretary of the Federation Espanola des Clubs Nauticus of Bilbao, which comprises the royal yacht clubs of San Sebastian, Santander and Bilbao. It is stated in the communication that Spain will be represented by three or less boats, to be met by an equal number of American boats. The Spaniards have asked that the races be sailed off Marblehead during the first fortnight in September; and arrangements have been made between the special committee of the Eastern Yacht Club and the Spanish organization to have the match sailed during this time.

Technology's basketball five meets Tufts this evening at the Technology gym on Garrison street in their second contest of the year. COLBY SELECTS RELAY MEN TODAY

Trainer Thompson Working Hard to Develop Strong Track Team for College Meets of Spring.

WATERVILLE, Me.—For the first time in five years, Colby will be represented by a relay team at the B. A. A. indoor meet Feb. 12, and the track prospects are brighter than they have been for years, owing to the untiring efforts of F. L. Thompson, the former Amherst quarter miler, who has coached the team the past two years. An outdoor board track, drawn from the plans of that of the B. A. A., has been erected through the efforts of Coach Thompson and the relay candidates have been practising daily on this. The candidates have been cut to about a dozen men and the team practically picked, the final trials being held today.

Capt. Wilbur E. Cole, '11, the varsity half miler, is sure of his position, and will be the strongest man on the relay. Ralph Good, '10, the football captain and the best college athlete in Maine, will without doubt make a place. Frohock, '13, next to Captain Cole, is the fastest man on the team, making the fastest time in the preliminary trials held Saturday, and will be third man. The fourth place is still undecided and depends upon the condition of Stacey, who won the 220 in the Maine meet last spring and if in condition, will undoubtedly be the choice of Coach Thompson.

The other men of the squad showing up well, are Ray Good, '13, and Bagnall, '12, of last year's football team, Vale, '11 the varsity hurdler, Blake, '10, Richardson, '10, Haskell, '11, Hussey, 12, and Cleveland, '13.

The team that will represent Bowdoin at the annual relay race with Tufts at the B. A. A. meet has been finally picked and consists of Capt. Henry J. Colbath of Dexter, Me., who ran 390 yards in 47s., Sumner Edwards of Cambridge, Mass., 48s., Robert D. Cole of Portland, who did not compete in the trials, Curtis Tuttle of Calusa, Cal., 49 2-5s., Harrison L. Robinson of Bangor, 49 3-5s. If Cole is in condition to run he and Robinson will run a special race to decide fourth man. Robinson may enter the 1000-yard run. Beside the relay team Coach Morrill will enter Jesse H. McKenney, Brunswick, Me., in the 40-yard dash, Edwards in the hurdles and Mark W. Burlingame in the high jump.

The only prominent entry received Tuesday for the B. A. A. meet was that of William A. Goebel, the giant left guard of the 1909 Yale football team, who has entered both the 12 and 16-pound shot events.

With the entries received yesterday the grand total is now 586, and further entries will not be barred, with the possible exception of prominent athletes who may wish to compete.

Northwestern University Freshman Who Won Many Honors on the Golf Links

CHARLES EVANS, JR., 1913.
Western amateur golf champion.

DARTMOUTH ENTERS EIGHT ATHLETES IN BOSTON A. A. GAMES

Relay Team Will Miss Services of B. M. Preble, Who Has Left College to Enter Harvard.

HANOVER, N. H.—The Dartmouth track squad of eight men, Coach Hillman and Manager Graves will leave Hanover Friday morning for Boston to take part in the B. A. A. meet Saturday night. The team will be minus B. M. Preble, who has been looked upon as a one of the prominent candidates for the relay team. He has left Dartmouth to enter Harvard. Preble has been one of the best half-milers in the college, and last year he won that event in the dual meet with Williams. C. H. Baxter, T. A. Smith and L. P. Hall are sure to make places on the relay team, while the fourth place will be filled by Nat Sherman or C. A. P. Duffie. Sherman is entered in the dashes, and the hurdles, along with Marks, the football captain, and Holdman. Holdman will also compete in the high jump. Captain Palmer is also a candidate for a place in this event and should secure a position. All of the members of the relay team are entered in the 600-yard run. Baxter is also entered in the 1000 yard. The relay team is to meet Technology and each man is to run 390 yards.

The track management is pleased with the enrolment of Tilley, a star athlete from the University of Illinois, who has become a member of the freshman class. Tilley endeavored to join the college last year but was unable to meet the requirements, so went to the University of Illinois. He is a low hurdler of prominence, having a record of 24s. but his star event is the hammer throw. He has thrown this 156 feet. Because of the enforcement of the freshman rule, Tilley will be unavailable this spring for varsity use, but should prove a valuable members of the freshman squad.

COLUMBIA LEADS AT RIFLE RANGES

WASHINGTON — Reports received from the rifle teams of nine colleges which participated in last week's shoot of the Intercollegiate Indoor Rifle League, shows the following scores to date:

N. P. Lane of Columbia has the honor of being the first college rifleman to score 1000 points in an indoor intercollegiate match. He put 10 shots in a space the size of a 10-cent piece, shooting from a prone position.

NORTHWESTERN MAY BECOME MEMBER OF EASTERN GOLF ASSO.

HAS MANY TROPHIES

EVANSTON, Ill.—Golf is one branch of athletics in which Northwestern University will soon be a factor to be reckoned with, for in her freshman class is registered the holder of a dozen trophy cups and as many records. Charles Evans, Jr., is, therefore, a student of whom Northwestern University is expecting much at the Scotch game. Last year as a member of Northwestern Academy, Evans captured many trophies in open and invitation tournaments in the middle West, as well as in Chicago.

On June 24, 1909, he won the western interscholastic championship. During the summer he won the open championship of Chicago and the international junior championship. Evans holds the amateur record of 35-35-70 at Edgewater; record of 72-72-144 for Owentsia; qualifying record at Westward-Ho of 75; and at Nashville he succeeded in making a new record of 75 for the course, at the same time winning the title of western amateur golf champion.

In a ranking list of American golfers compiled by a well known golf editor, Evans is conceded second place to H. C. Egan and ahead of W. J. Travis. Evans is also given second place by a Chicago expert and third place by a New York editor. He is, therefore, ranked high among American golfers and is considered by many as the coming player of the country.

As a student he is extremely well liked by his associates. His genial nature wins him many friends and he takes his many honors modestly. He hopes to secure for Northwestern an entry into the eastern intercollegiate tournament in the spring. Evans has defeated representatives of many prominent eastern colleges and should he be admitted to this tournament he would put Northwestern University golf on a standard equal to that at Harvard, Cornell and Yale.

RATIONAL GOLF

By Jason Rogers.

Although you now have no fewer than four championships to your credit, and certainly with power to add to their numbers, it can hardly be said that you have been a player who developed abnormally quickly as it took some years before you found yourself consistently rubbing shoulders with the very elite of the golfing world, writes "The Caddie" in the London Tatler regarding James Braid. True it is that for many years before you had absolutely established yourself as one of the finest golfers who had ever lived they all had a very wholesome respect for you, particularly as an exponent of the art of match play, there being a general belief, by the way, that in your younger days you would never be quite as successful with card and pencil as when you were called upon to prove your work in individual personal antagonism. You have very much dispelled that belief as at the moment if a general vote were taken you would no doubt be credited as the very best player by strokes in the world of golf, but it is a virtue which has in a great sense been developed by assiduous mental application, as none of the first-class players seem to take quite the same care and trouble that you do, and it must candidly be said that the more care and time you take over your shots the more successful you are, and the result certainly justifies the slowness of your methods.

But to return to your more youthful days, it must be mentioned in all fairness to your good self that just at the time when men like Taylor and Vardon were putting the finishing touches to their natural ability as players the opportunities granted to you toward accomplishing this much-desired end were somewhat few and far between as, firstly, you decided to assume the trade of a professional golfer comparatively late in life, and then you spent a few years as clubmaker to the army and navy stores, and you consequently saw much more of the bench than you did of the links, and although you were living in an aroma of the detail appertaining to the game still it was not quite the correct form of aroma for the development of your golfing ability. You cannot develop or train champions by keeping them working assiduously over a bench. However, you did manage to obtain a certain amount of practise at the week-ends, chiefly over the old Chiswick course, a links which seems ludicrously restricted for a player of your power. Still, it sufficed to keep you in a certain degree of practise and prevent your entirely losing the touch of your clubs.

Once you obtained a position as professional to a club your game came on in leaps and bounds, but it was not until the year 1897 that you emphasized once and for all what a power in the land you eventually were bound to become. I have every reason to remember that occasion as you struggled desperately hard to deprive me of one of the greatest solatiums of my life, viz., a second victory in the open championship, and you very nearly disappointed me, and had you taken just one stroke less I am sorely afraid that the name of James Braid would have been writ on the championship tablet five times instead of four, as I had no heart whatever to tackle you single-handed the next day—the excitement provided by the two days' play was quite sufficient to be going on with. Many a time have I watched you play and derived the greatest pleasure from doing so, but on that occasion I tried to witness your finish and failed lamentably, and fled in pure fright. Every shot made me shiver with apprehension.

For some reason or another your performances in the championship for the few following years were a little unsatisfactory, but your turn came in 1901 at Muirfield when you relegated your close friend, Taylor, to the position fate seems to have specially designed for him, viz., that of runner-up. Then followed three barren years, to be followed by a run of wonderful success, as you have since been champion in 1905, 1906, and the present year of grace, and not in one single instance could your win be termed in any way lucky. But sufficient of your career; it is too well known for recapitulation.

As regards your game it would be difficult to say wherein its greatest strength lay. Public opinion would undoubtedly say in your length from the tee and through the green, and for length and accuracy combined you probably have a pull over all your serious rivals in this respect. But on the other hand how many, if any, play either their long or short approaches more accurately than you do? Perhaps one might mention Taylor, as the ball seems to fly more truly off his club than off yours, but the result is much the same. Now and then you are guilty of playing what seems a very bad iron shot, as the ball leaves the club face at such a tangent that the spectators involuntarily say, "Oh!" but these are few and far between. Your putting has always been a very much-discussed subject, and at one time you were an execrable putter; your marker at St. Andrews in 1900 remarked, "It is enough to make one weep to see this man putt; it's sinful. He should win the championship on his head, but he never will until he learns to putt"; and perhaps there was a good deal of truth in that statement, as from that time you began to mend your ways on the putting greens chiefly due to the fact that you almost completely cured that wretched habit of swaying your body about like a ship in a gale, and nowadays you are the embodiment of dignity when a putter is in your hands. Your style of putting may appear inclined to be too methodical and carefully labored to be interesting to watch, but on occasions it is very effective.

It cannot be said that your style is the best on the links as it is more fiercefully forceful than dainty, and neither at the top of the swing nor at the finish do you supply the pose of finished elegance so dear to the heart of the photographer who is in search of the physically beautiful. The swing of your club appears to vary very much year by year; once you wielded the club like a whirlwind, now it appears to travel on both the upward and downward swing in a much more sedate fashion; in fact, one of your many admirers was so surprised at the change that he facetiously hinted that if you were not careful in the development of that habit a day would come when the clubhead would never reach the ball at all. It may be an optical delusion, but you certainly appear to bring the club down on the ball much more vertically than is quite in keeping with what is termed the orthodox, and in a less-gifted player it is a peculiarity which might be stigmatized as incorrect, but in your case genius overrules any such hint.

Personally you are universally termed a charming fellow, a title which is well deserved, as you are a delightful mixture of amiability and determination, and among your fellow-professionals you are the most popular of men; never during my experience of the game in connection with the professional element have I ever heard anything but the kindest of things about you.

FIRST RESIGNATION UNDER NEW REGIME RECEIVED BY MAYOR

island at a salary of $1800. Several changes will be made in the probation office which will require a general readjustment of salaries down there.

Commissioner of Wires Cole dropped into the mayor's office this morning to pay his respects, and the mayor immediately seized the opportunity to question him relative to the wiring conditions in the city, and particularly in Brighton and Dorchester. During the last big storm these sections were entirely cut off from communication with the electric lighting plants and the fire signal system. The mayor has asked Commissioner Cole for a report on the conditions, looking to have more wires put under ground. At the present time the law provides that but two miles of wire can be put under ground annually, and the mayor intends if possible to have this increased to five.

He learned that the fire and police signal departments have not availed themselves of all the opportunities to get their wires underground, and he wants this to be done at once.

J. Randolph Coolidge of the art commission was a caller at city hall today and talked to the mayor relative to the extension of Arlington street. He told the mayor that there were several big business enerprises being formed for that section of the city, and that the city could do that work now at much less cost than if it were delayed.

Mr. Fitzgerald informed him that the matter was under consideration but it would be impossible for the city to do anything at once, and he hoped that the gentlemen who were behind the business propositions being considered had sufficient public spirit to hold up their plans until the city could take some action.

Figuratively speaking, the "No Help Wanted" sign is out at city hall today at the order of Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, who in a lengthy statement explains to the public in general that he has no situations, positions, or jobs to give to any one, whether the applicant voted for him or not.

During the first two days of the new administration the mayor's office was flooded with applications for every kind of a place to be filled in the city's employ, and even applicants sought to secure the mayor's indorsement for positions with public service corporations, thus asking him to violate the law which prohibits such influence being used on the part of a municipal officer.

At the time of issuing this statement the mayor sent another to the city clerk's office relative to his campaign expenses. According to this statement the personal expenses of the mayor amounted to $10,500, all of which was paid to John F. McDonald, the manager and treasurer of the campaign.

In his statement relative to the giving of jobs to those who would enter the city's employ, the mayor explains that his hands are tied by the provisions of the new charter which place him under the civil service commission.

Mayor and Councilmen Hear East Boston Pleas

Many pleas of neglect were poured into the ears of Mayor Fitzgerald and the councilmen at the first district meeting held in East Boston Tuesday evening, and after all was said and done it was learned that the people of the island section would like upward of $1,000,000 expended in improvements in their district.

Besides this they desire that the city shall take some action which shall secure for the patrons of the Boston Elevated road transfers from the tunnel line to the North station, in order that the citizens of East Boston shall not be obliged to pay two fares when they wish to go to that station.

East Boston stands in a fair way to secure something like $800,000 of the money desired for improvements, for this amount must be expended in the erection of a new bridge at Meridian street soon.

SENATE OF NATION PASSES RESOLVE TO INVESTIGATE LIVING

WASHINGTON — The Senate this afternoon adopted the Elkins-Lodge resolution providing for a special committee of seven senators to investigate the causes of the present high cost of living.

WASHINGTON Speed is to be one of the most important requirements of the Senate committee for the investigation of high food products. It should by all means be in by April or May, said a leader today.

It is stated authoritatively that all the sessions of the committee will be held in this city and that the investigators probably will get a large part of their evidence from the government departments. The agricultural department and the department of commerce and labor have much information that can at once be placed at the disposal of the committee.

The five Republican members of the committee will likely be chosen from a list comprising Gallinger (N. H.), Lodge (Mass.), Elkins (W. Va.), Smoot (Utah), McCumber (N. D.) and Crawford (S. D.). If Mr. Gallinger is on the committee he will be chairman and Mr. Crawford will not be a member. With Mr. Gallinger off the committee, Mr. Lodge will be chairman.

Meat Protest Committee Will Visit Cold Storage

The Boston consumers protest committee will visit and inspect the Quincy Market cold storage warehouse, the largest provision storage in Boston, tomorrow forenoon, to ascertain for themselves to what extent, if any, this concern may be unduly withholding foodstuffs from trade.

The committee will meet the officials of the storage house at 11 o'clock and will be shown by them through the plant. Every opportunity will be given for the committee to see conditions just as they are.

The wholesale price of beef advanced another dollar per hundred pounds today, but the retailers continue to sell at the same prices as during the past few days.

Some dealers are buying pork at wholesale a half cent cheaper than Tuesday, although the retail price remains the same as of late.

Lamb has not advanced, but holds at the high price reached by advances during the past two weeks. Dealers express themselves as surprised that lamb is so high and look for a drop before Saturday.

They adopted a provisional constitution and by-laws and elected the following officers:

ASSERTS COTTON MAN REAL LOSER

WASHINGTON—"The cotton producer has to pay the cost of maintaining stock gambling enterprises and all the losses sustained by speculators in the cotton market," declared T. J. Brooks of Tennessee before the House committee on agriculture today. The committee is trying to get facts upon which to frame a bill against gambling in cotton futures. Mr. Brooks pointed out that there are many more grades of cotton dealt in on the New York cotton exchange than there are in fact.

WINTHROP WOMEN ASSIST EDUCATION

WINTHROP, Mass.—Active work has just been commenced by the Winthrop Womens Club preparatory to carrying on a playground this summer on the marsh land set aside by the town for this purpose, following the splendid results from the playground last year in the yard of the Pauline street school conducted by the club.

IMMEDIATE REPEAL OF TARIFF ON FARM PRODUCTS IS ASKED

Immediate modification or repeal of the high tariff on food products was loudly applauded as the remedy which must eliminate exorbitant prices of farm products at the special meeting of the Boston Fruit and Produce Exchange today. The meeting was called by request of 12 members to discuss the existing duties on foreign products between this country and Canada. President Arthur T. Cumings presided.

George Corcoran, the first speaker, declared that drastic action should be taken at once to keep prevailing prices from going higher, and proposed two ways of remedying the situation. First, to greatly increase the product of the farms, which he said could be trebled by intensive farming; second, to abolish or greatly modify the duties now imposed on farm products.

The duties now imposed on farm products, said Mr. Corcoran, were just when enacted, but that time is past for the poor farmer of former years is now the most prosperous of the working class. The duties collected so far would not offset the clerical expense of collection, so that the country's revenue will not be lessened and the farmers will not suffer, but the consumer will be benefited.

Mr. Corcoran charged the national department of agriculture with being the most inefficient and non-progressive of any nation. He insisted that it has not accomplished in its years of existence what Canada, Argentina and Russia have in any one year.

Former president of the exchange, Joseph Thomas, was enthusiastically applauded. He said in part that the value of the campaign of education now going on cannot be overestimated but that the public must use judgment as to what it imbibes. He stated that the 700 members of the exchange, largely engaged in the packing, shipping and distribution of farm products, welcome the opportunity of placing before the public some of the causes of high prices.

The present tariff on eggs of 5 cents a dozen and on butter and cheese of 6 cents a pound has been conducive to high prices, Mr. Thomas asserted. He said that correspondence with the secretary of agriculture and with Congress has brought only evasive and unsatisfying replies, showing a desire of the western agricultural element for a prohibitory tariff wall.

Modification of the tariff on food products, said Mr. Thomas, would prevent prices from reaching extreme limits, some attention would be paid to the markets of the world and the United States would be able at such times to draw supplies from the outside. The government would also derive some revenue, the present tariff being prohibitory and therefore nonproductive.

CENSUS CLERKS' TEST IN MARCH

The United States government wants more clerks for the thirteenth decennial census, which starts on April 15. Consequently an examination to secure eligibles who can qualify as clerks will be held at the rooms of the United States civil service commission on March 5, next.

The work required will be chiefly four classes, operation of card punching and card-tabulating machines; operation of typewriters, adding machines, or combined typewriter adding machines; manuscript tabulation and other clerical work; subclerical work, such as that of messengers, watchmen and laborers. The entrance salary for the first three classes will be at the rate of $600 per annum, but it is expected that a considerable proportion of those employees will be advanced to $720 within three or four months, and later to $900 per annum. The salaries of messengers, assistant messengers, watchmen, laborers and subclerks will be from $720 to $840 a year.

ARGUE SUBWAY FOR HYDE PARK

The board of railroad commissioners gave a continued hearing today at the State House on the location of the proposed Boston & Providence interurban electric railroad through the town of Hyde Park. Town Engineer Norris of Hyde Park was on the stand throughout the forenoon and testified that he has drawn plans for a subway from Clarendon Hills through the thickly settled portion of the town, in order to prevent the great property damage which would result from constructing the road as the company proposes. His plans show that the subway can be constructed at a total cost of only $1,200,000, which is only slightly in excess of the land damages that would be caused by the elevated structure which the company proposes.

YEARBOOK ISSUED BY NEWTON DAUGHTERS OF REVOLUTION

Sarah Hull chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, of Newton, has just issued a year book which is very artistic in its dainty covers of buff and blue, and is a most comprehensive, practical and useful grouping of information relating to chapter, state and national organizations.

The book contains a fine picture of Sarah Fuller Hull, for whom the chapter is named. She was a native of Newton, daughter of Judge Fuller, wife of Gen. William Hull, of high character, prominent in society and revolutionary history. She went with her husband to the army, and proved cheerful and courageous even in the darkest days.

Sarah Hull chapter, D. R., is one of the largest and most active in the state. It made large contributions for soldiers in the Philippines, established scholarships in Berea College and Lincoln University, established a traveling library of revolutionary history in the Newton public schools, contributed generously to the Cambridge memorial, the Roger Wolcott memorial, the national society's work at Valley Forge, the Paul Revere house and many other similar causes. The chapter is planning to erect a suitable testimonial to the citizens of Newton who participated in the war of American independence. The fund is steadily growing. Miss Clara J. Coburn is the regent, and Mrs. Alexander M. Ferris, honorary regent.

Mrs. Mary-Abby Proctor, state director of the Junior Sons and Daughters of the Revolution, has prepared a chapter ritual for use at the meetings of the Junior societies which is a concise statement in interesting form of the objects of the society, a definition of patriotism, a tribute to those who won American independence, those who prevented the division of the Union and those who more recently defended the honor of the American flag. Patriotic songs and a flag salute are also included.

CONTEST IMPENDS OVER VACANT SEAT

March 22 is the date set by Governor Draper for the election of a successor to Congressman Lovering in the fourteenth congressional district.

Judge Robert O. Harris of the superior court, ex-Congressman John D. Long, ex-Mayor Edward H. Keith of Brockton, W. R. Buchanan, ex-Senator Frank G. Wheatley and ex-Senator George H. Garfield are spoken of as possible Republican candidates.

Charles S. Hamlin and Thomas T. Thatcher are being spoken of fof the Democratic nomination.

Both Judge Harris and Mr. Long take the position that unless there is a very strong desire in the district to have them as candidates they do not care to consider the question.

Messrs. Keith and Garfield, however, both Brockton men, have announced their candidacies.

Mr. Garfield made this announcement Tuesday: "After careful consideration I have decided to allow the use of my name as a candidate for Congress. I have had assurance of strong support in Brockton and outside in Plymouth and Bristol counties and the cape.

"My recent service in the Legislature has given me a chance to get in close touch with public affairs at the present time and if nominated and elected I will work for those changes and improvements in legislation now demanded by the people."

Mr. Keith Tuesday night announced his candidacy. In the Legislature he was chairman of the committee on liquor laws and was an aggressive temperance worker. He believes he will have the support of the temperance vote in the district.

Ex-Governor Long is quoted as saying: "I do not say that under no circumstances would I consider the matter of the unexpired congressional term in the congressional district in which I live.

"But I would not consider it unless it were the general wish of the district, without my friends or my townsmen in Hingham putting me forward as if I were a candidate.

"I think Brockton may very likely agree on Dr. Wheatley, and Brockton is entitled to its voice in the matter," added ex-Governor Long.

This is taken to mean that Mr. Long will not enter into a contest for the place, such as seems to be impending.

Ex-Senator Frank G. Wheatley of North Abington was at the State House Tuesday sounding the senators and representatives from the district.

"I expect that I shall be a candidate for the nomination," said he.

Judge Harris is said to look favorably on the proposition that he shall be a candidate, chiefly because his father was a member of Congress and he would like to have a similar honor.

The Hon. Charles Sumner Hamlin, who is recognized as one of the ablest Democrats in the country, having been tested in many capacities as diplomat, special commissioner to Japan and commissioner at other international conferences, under the Cleveland administration, has been in Europe for several weeks, but is expected home in a day or two, when he will probably be asked to enter the contest.

Colonel Whipple is said to favor Mr. Long's candidacy rather than his own.

SCHOOL ALUMNI HOLD A REUNION

Former pupils of the Stoughton school of Dorchester Lower Mills held a reunion at the Gilbert Stuart school Tuesday evening.

The alumni association presented to the school a fine portrait of Isaac Swan, master from 1843 to 1869. There were present as special guests Edward M. Lancaster, former principal, and Joseph Mears.

Officers were elected as follows: President, W. W. Hibbard '79; first vice-president, Dr. Charles W. Cavanaugh '85; second vice-president, Leon P. Haflett '80; third vice-president, Mrs. Edward J. Baynton '84; directors for three years, L. Walter Gurney '70 and Miss Edna McGrath '95; recording secretary, Miss Helen A. Swan '89; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Milla E. Durrell '85; treasurer, V. J. Voye.

HINGHAM TO DEDICATE ARMORY.

HINGHAM, Mass.—Governor Draper has fixed the dedication of the new state armory in this town for the evening of March 28.

Possible Congressional Candidates for Vacancy In Fourteenth District

GOVERNOR DRAPER names March 22 as the date for a special election in the fourteenth congressional district.

Republicans who have announced their candidacies are:

Edward H. Keith of Brockton, mayor 1904-05, representative in the Legislature 1900-01-02.

George H. Garfield of Brockton, ex-member of both branches of the Legislature, member of the state fish and game commission.

Other Republicans mentioned:

John D. Long of Hingham, ex-secretary of the navy, ex-Governor and ex-congressman from the district.

Robert O. Harris of Bridgewater, superior court judge, ex-member of the Legislature.

Frank G. Wheatley of Abington, ex-senator.

William R. Buchanan of Brockton.

Democrats mentioned:

Charles S. Hamlin of Mattapoisett, ex-assistant secretary of the treasury.

Thomas J. Thatcher of Yarmouth.

FIRE DESTROYS ABATTOIR PLANT

The plant of the Brighton abattoir in Brighton was destroyed by fire early today. The fire broke out shortly after 2 a. m. and at 2:35 a. m. a fourth alarm was sounded from box 841.

Police headquarters was at once notified of the seriousness of the fire and asked to request the Boston & Albany railroad officials to send shifting engines and crews of men to haul the freight cars and the long trains loaded with live stock out from the reach of the flames in the stock yards.

It was learned today that all of the live stock was saved, although the large rendering building was destroyed. One of the proprietors said that it could not be definitely learned what the insurance was nor the extent of the damage, but the Brighton police placed the damage at about $300,000. The insurance papers were in the safe in the burned building.

The all out signal was sounded at 10:30 a. m. Michael Eagan, an employee of the concern, is reported missing.

The Brighton police say that Michael J. Akins, a night helper, who was said to be in the building, also is missing.

It was not determined where the fire originated nor how it started, but the police believe it started in the boiler room.

ADDRESS GIVEN ON JOHN ELIOT

About 50 members of the Roxbury Historical Society listened to a stirring address by the Rev. James de Normandie on "John Eliot, Apostle to the Indians," at the nineteenth annual dinner of the association at the Norfolk house Tuesday evening.

Dr. de Normandie treated his subject from three points of view: speaking of Eliot as the pastor of the First church in Roxbury for nearly 50 years; as an educational worker, particularly in behalf of the Roxbury Latin school; and as a missionary among the Indians.

Particular interest attached to the speech as Dr. de Normandie is present pastor of the church which John Eliot founded.

PLANS ARE MADE BY IRISH PARTY

(By the United Press.)

LONDON—John Redmond will be the spokesman of the Irish Nationalists in the House of Commons with practically the entire strength of the Irish party at his call in dealing with the governmental majority. The delegation will vote on all pending legislation as he plans.

This was decided on today at the conference of the Irish Nationalists recently elected to Parliament at Dublin. They met to map out the legislative program and the feeling was that they are in a position to force the legislation needed to make Ireland self-governing.

Fifty-four of the members responded to the roll call and Mr. Redmond was named as perliamentary leader. Messrs. Healy, O'Brien and the few anti-Redmondites were not invited to the conference and none of them appeared.

That the Labor party, with its 40 votes in the forthcoming Parliament, will demand radical legislation from the Liberals as the price of its support, was indicated today by Keir Hardie, the Labor member of Parliament from Merthyr-Tydvil, in his inaugural address as president of the Labor party congress, to which he was elected today at Newport, Wales.

"Those who are expecting that the Labor party will be rent with internal dissensions and finally merge itself with the Liberals are doomed to disappointment," Hardie declared. "We must maintain our freedom of action at all hazards."

His speech is generally interpreted as a serving of notice on the Liberals that the Laborites appreciate their power, and will insist on a drastic legislative program.

that an executive should do all that he could in the public interest, unless he was specifically forbidden by law. Mr. Ballinger demanded the warrant of definite law for every step he took, and in public utterances manifested scorn for the loose constructionists who, as it seemed to him, were attempting to mutilate the constitution.

Consistently with this theory, Mr. Ballinger restored to entry the waterpower sites which had been withdrawn by President Roosevelt upon Mr. Pinchot's recommendation. His course was explained by the statement that the executive had not the authority to withdraw such lands. This was taken in many quarters as an indirect criticism of the previous administration which had withdrawn them. But such a course was hazardous for an administration that was founded upon the Roosevelt policies. President Taft convinced Mr. Ballinger that it would never do, and Mr. Ballinger then promptly withdrew again the waterpower sites from entry. These withdrawals were made with the expectation that the President would ask Congress to validate them and to specify the President's authority in such cases.

But the extent to which the public lands committee has gone in interpreting the breadth of the present law surpasses even the recommendations of the President for the future. In his conservation message Mr. Taft recommends that the secretary of the interior be authorized "temporarily" to withdraw lands, pending submission to Congress of recommendations as to legislation to meet conditions or emergencies as they arise.

The committee holds that the present law has no "temporary" limits. The President's withdrawals are good until he annuls them, or until Congress restores the land to entry. And the bill which has been reported out for the action of Congress is not limited to "temporary" withdrawals. The President, not the secretary of the interior, is authorized by this proposed bill, to withdraw lands in unusual cases. There is no limit to the time of the withdrawal. The only necessity imposed upon him by the new bill is that he shall report these withdrawals at the next session of Congress.

Regarding waterpower sites interpretation Secretary Ballinger has been wrong again, according to Senator Nelson and many other lawyers. He stands behind a bill which is under the committee's consideration and which proposes to give the federal government extensive powers in governing the conditions of developing waterpower. This legislation, in the judgment of many of the lawyers in Congress, proceeds upon the assumption that the federal government has some right in the waters, other than the rights which may be exercised by a private riparian owner. To defend the bill in its broad aspects as championed by Mr. Ballinger it must be held that the federal government has this right in water. But a brief prepared for the Senate committee on land holds quite the contrary. And the Senate committee is already on record in another connection to the effect that the federal government has no sovereign right in water. In this instance, strangely enough, Mr. Ballinger is upon the side of Messrs. Pinchot and Garfield.

Now the thing which is proved by these legal points is that there is opportunity for a vast difference of opinion about legal and constitutional questions. Lawyers equally able and equally honest take entirely opposite views.

And in this view of the case it would seem that Messrs. Roosevelt, Garfield and Pinchot are more than justified in their view that an executive ought to do all he can in the plain interest of the people, unless specific statutes plainly enjoin him from raising his hand.

Lofty Spire of Stefanskirche

The top of this Vienna (Austria) church is nearly 500 feet high, symmetrical and an architectural gem. The two commercial buildings standing in the foreground of this picture have no connection with the church building. There is a wide street between.

VIENNA—So bright and gay is Vienna in its modern magnificence and attractions that the visitor is apt to forget its ancient glories and neglect to visit many buildings and insitutions of uncommon historical and architectural interest which are to be found folded away among the narrow and irregular streets of the inner city. One of these is the Cathedral of St. Stephens, "Stefanskirche," the most important medieval building in Vienna. Although there are incorporated in the present structure fragments of the twelfth century edifice, the cathedral dates, in its present form, mainly from the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries.

The original tower, which, previously restored several times, was pulled down about the middle of the last century and an entirely new and lofty spire built, is considered the finest example of Gothic architecture in Europe, and whose rich decorations and beautiful propositions excite general admiration.

FISHERMEN ENJOY PROSPERITY WAVE

A wave of prosperity has come to the men of the fishing fleet recently. High prices and good catches have gone a long way to put some of the skippers well on the way to fortune.

Capt. Geoffry Thomas of the schooner Cynthia sold a recent fare of haddock and cod caught on southerly Georges for $2100. This brings the vessel's stock for the season up to more than $17,000, a remarkable record. Another captain who has been making a name for himself recently is Frank Watts of the new schooner Gladys & Nellie. Since the first of the month he has made three trips which have brought at least $2200. She has been in the water hardly long enough to dim her first coat of paint.

WHALEMEN KEEP A SHARP LOOKOUT

EASTHAMPTON, L. I.—For more than 250 years off-shore whaling has been carried on during the winter months on the south side, and the present winter is no exception. February is the month when whales are usually taken, and as there is plenty of "whale feed" in the ocean, the whalemen are keeping a sharp lookout at the beach.

There are a number of crews at this place and Amagansett, and only this week another crew with a boat equipped with the latest gear formed a partnership to engage in the fishery.

AWAITING RESULT OF RIVER TANGLE

HYDE PARK, Mass.—Residents along the Neponset river are interested in the result of the opposition by Representative Wolcott of Milton to a bill which, it is said, will go far toward nullifying the steps he has taken to have the attorney-general prosecute polluters of that stream. ARGUE HARBOR BILL IN PREPARATION FOR ADOPTION THURSDAY

House Committee Practically Decides on Measure to Carry About Forty Million Dollars.

PASS BUSY SESSION

WASHINGTON—The rivers and harbors appropriation bill to be adopted Thursday will carry approximately $40,000,000 for the next fiscal year. This was conceded after Tuesday's prolonged session of the House committee on rivers and harbors. The Ohio river, the Great lakes and other sections are provided for in items passed upon, but the amounts were not made public.

The committee will meet today and Thursday, when it is expected the bill will be finally adopted by the committee.

Determined to defeat the administration ship subsidy bill recently reported to the House, the minority members of the House committee on merchant marine and fisheries decided Tuesday upon a substitute for the Humphrey measure.

The minority bill was submitted to Representative Champ Clark, the minority leader, and Representative Underwood of Alabama, the Democratic "whip," who gave their approval to it, and will, therefore, receive the united support of the Democrats.

The fight in the naval committee of the House over the Meyer reorganization plan and the rumored intention of Secretary Meyer to discipline Rear Admirals Capps and Rogers for testifying before the committee against his plan, continues to arouse feeling in the vicinity of the committee's room.

Rear Admiral Casper F. Goodrich, retired, was a witness before the committee Tuesday, and while he did not directly attack the Meyer plan, he said he did not believe Secretary Meyer had given the Newberry plan sufficient trial before replacing it with another. He said the Newberry plan would have saved the navy department upward of $1,000,000 annually.

Demanding an investigation of the immigration commission provided for in the resolution he had introduced, Representative Macon of Arkansas renewed his attack upon the commission in the House Tuesday and vigorously defended J. H. Patten, secretary of the Immigration Restriction League, his informant, who was severely arraigned by Representative Bennet of New York, a member of the commission, in a recent speech in the House.

In addition to Representative Macon's attack on the immigration commission more than two hours of the session of the House were devoted to a discussion of the tariff and high prices, and especially as related to the state of Texas, Representative Henry of Texas and Representative Boutell of Illinois being the principal speakers.

In the Senate the postal savings bill and the bureau of forestry were under discussion. The public expenditures committee was also discussed, some senators seeing a possible interference with the operations of the regular Senate committees because of the comprehensive powers given to the public expenditures committee.

CHINESE OBSERVE NEW YEAR PERIOD

Boston Colony, in Common With Others, Joins in General Festivities to Last a Week or More.

Chinese residents of Boston today, in common with the Chinese settlements in all American cities, are celebrating the Chinese New Year, which according to their calendar is the beginning of the year 4607. There are not many outward signs of the celebration in Boston, there being perhaps a dozen flags displayed on Harrison avenue. It was said in the district today that the celebration would continue through the remainder of the week.

It is the custom of the residents of the districts to exchange elaborate cards of felicitation at this season with every friend and acquaintance. It is also a season for general visiting, and peacemaking.

The merchants of the district are busy settling up their indebtedness or receiving payments. It is an unalterable law among the Chinese that all debts must be canceled on the New Year. If there is any one unable to pay, his family is expected to make up his indebtedness.

MELROSE URGES QUIET "FOURTH"

A campaign for a quieter observance of July 4 has been instituted in Melrose and ex-Mayor Charles B. Barton is in charge of a committee of the Melrose board of trade which is actively urging the adoption of strict rules to govern the celebration. On the committee with Mr. Barton are Edwin S. Small, chairman of the Melrose school committee, and Neil A. Divver. The committee at present is urging all of the mens clubs and improvement societies to take up the matter, appoint committees and confer with city government officials with regard to doing away with the unpleasant features of the national holiday.

PROGRAM OF AMERICAN MUSIC.

EDGAR STILLMAN-KELLEY'S piano quintet, op. 20, was given its first Boston performance Tuesday evening in Jordan hall at a public concert of the American Music Society. The piano part was played by Arthur Shepherd, the string parts by the Hoffmann quartet.

The work is in the usual four movements and is clearly constructed, as composers of late years have found such a work must be if it is to make a place for itself in the chamber music repertory. The exercise of artistry comes in making a composition of the piano quintet order modern and individual, in spite of the prescribed architectural formulas which must be followed. There is scarcely any composer in these days who tries to work entirely by himself; the recent triumphs of musical expression have been made by men working in groups, instead of independently. And the groups may be broadly defined according to three nationalities—the German, the French and the Italian. Composers who do not belong by birth to one of these nationalities are generally frank to associate themselves with one or perhaps with two of them and afterwards are glad to make such conquests in style, mood, color, or what not, as they can.

In the piano pieces which the Russian composer, Rachmaninoff, played in Boston this winter and in the tone poem which he conducted at a Symphony concert, there could be clearly traced influences of both the German and the French schools of composition; nobody who puzzled over them to discover their Russian characteristics found anything more definite than a touch here and there of Russian melancholy or of Russian humor. And so it is with Mr. Stillman-Kelley's piano quintet: it is a gray-tinted piece of musical coloring in the French manner. The third movement, the allegretto, may have some humor in the American vein; it should have, for no man can ever learn to laugh except as his own countrymen laugh. But the humor of the music was not very striking anyway; in fact, no part of the quartet was very outspoken in its expression either of light heartedness or of deep feeling.

John Beach offered his musical setting of Browning's "In a Gondola." The poem is called a dramatic monologue; and monologue it is, with a mood developing to a dramatic climax, and at the same time it is a boat song and a love song. In Mr. Beach's music flashing arpeggio chords give a barcaroie accompaniment which changes to melody when the words become lyrical, and sinks into dim undertone when the poem becomes dramatic. Mr. Barnhart sang the poem to Mr. Beach's accompaniment with genuine feeling and with good interpretative effect, albeit he is a Wullnerian.

Mrs. Bertha Cushing Child sang five songs by American composers, most of them familiar names. A suite of Howard Brockway's for violoncello and piano was performed by Alwyn Schroeder, the 'cellist, and Mr. Brockway.

MAX LANDOW'S RECITAL.

Max Landow, a German musician, played in piano recital at Steinert hall Tuesday afternoon for the first time in Boston. His program included Beethoven's sonata, op. 110, A flat; Schumann's "Kreisleriana," op. 16, No. 2, in B; Brahms' variations on an original theme, op. 21, No. 1; Chopin's allegro de concert, op. 46; Liszt's "Benediction," ballade, B minor, "Sonnet of Petrarch," No. 123, "Legende, St. Francis Walking on the Water."

Mr. Landow drew a fair sized audience as audiences go this present season. While he interested his hearers, even absorbed them, their absorption was not ecstatic, the state from which one is aroused in protest and emotion, but rather the absorption with which we follow some abstruse mathematical calculation or an intellectual tour de force. In other words, he gives the impression of a musical architect rather than a colorist. Thus his analysis of the musical structure was masterly and the delineation of voice parts, especially in the fugal work of the sonata, was admirably clear. Mr. Landow's gifts in this aspect command praise. But there is much in interpretation besides the purely intellectual. So his playing was not of sensuous beauty, spite of undeniable skill in production of soft tones and it left the audience cold. The atmosphere prevailed of much thought and study and all was imbued with an inflexible seriousness.

LONGY CLUB CONCERT.

Maurice Ravel is the interesting French composer now. His Spanish rhapsody was the most remarkable piece in the program of modern French music which Mrs. Richard J. Hall presented at the Orchestral Club concert two weeks ago; and his little overture, called an introduction and allegro, for harp, string quartet, clarinet and piano, was likewise the noteworthy piece in the program of the second Longy Club concert Tuesday night. Simplicity is one of the characteristics of this latter piece of Ravel's, but it is that kind of French simplicity which is reached only through much refinement of artistry.

Mme. Marie Sundelius, who has the peculiar gifts of vocal tone needed for the singing of French songs, was the soloist at the Longy concert. The program was as follows:

Mozart, quartet for oboe, clarinet, horn, bassoon, with piano accompaniment (first time), songs: Louis Aubert, Mélancholia, Helene; Rhene Baton, Apporte les cristaux dores, Lune de Cuivre, Frele comme un harmonica; Haendel, sonate for oboe and piano; songs: Gustave Charpentier, Priere, Parfum exotique, Complainte; Maurice Ravel, introduction and allegro for harp with string quartette, flute and clarinet accompaniment (first time).

The third and last concert of the season will take place March 10, at 8:15 p. m., with Max Fiedler assisting.

AN AMERICAN OPERA.

Legrand Howland's heralded opera "Sarrona" was given its first performance in America at the New Amsterdam theater, New York, Tuesday afternoon. The opera has been performed 200 times in various European houses.

Comment in the New York papers this morning in general credits Mr. Howland with a certain technical facility and with talent for vocal writing, but finds him lacking in invention, reminiscent of famous Italian composers. The performance is said to have been of merit. Messrs. Hammerstein and Dippel were among the audience.

POPULAR PRICE OPERA.

A series of grand opera performances at popular prices is one of the principal innovations of the second period of the season of the Boston Opera Company.

With the seats for the regular performances practically sold out to the subscribers months before the season started, the problem of how to make it possible for the large army of opera lovers in Greater Boston to attend the performances at the Boston opera house proved a puzzle to the management and the popular price Saturday nights are expected to solve it.

The same mountings, the same artists, and the same attention to detail will be offered to the patrons of the Saturday night performances and with the price within reach of all, these performances it is expected will become an institution.

The reduction in the price of seats carries with it no other significance than that the management is desirous of making grand opera enjoyment less of a luxury.

The scale of prices is 50 cents to $2, and already the demand for seats is large, and outside cities have taken a keen interest and demands for seats are coming from all over New England.

The repertoire is attractive: "Il Trovatore," with Carlo Cartica, Emma Hoffman, Raymond Boulogne and Rosa Olitzka, in the principal parts, will be the offering on next Saturday night, which is to mark the inauguration of the popular price performances.

The operas to follow are "Carmen," Wagner's "Lohengrin," Gounod's "Faust," Verdi's "Rigoletto," Donizetti's "Lucia di Lammermoor," an opera that seems to laugh at years, and the two sparkling gems of grand opera, Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana" and Leoncavallo's "I Pagliacci."

NEW YORK MUSIC LETTER

NEW YORK—Authorities are divided as to the year of Chopin's birth, whether 1809 or 1810. Adherents of the latter will parallel on Feb. 22 the observances of last year. Celebrations have already commenced, for on Monday Antoinette Szumowska played a concert of the works of her countryman. It was a fitting anniversary of the great Polish composer's birth played by one of the few pianists who have been privileged to study under Paderewski. Mme. Szumowska showed womanly tact and temperament in her rendering of the master's great sonata, op. 35, and other works. It is she who more than any other recent pianist has given Chopin his proper place in the chamber music hall.

* * *

This bids fair to be a year of musical centenaries. The New York Symphony orchestra has already announced a concert to be played in recognition of Schumann's centenary. There are also other centenaries of minor interest which fall this year. Felicien Cesar David's occurs on April 13 and Ferdinand David's on June 19. The former, the French David, achieved much fame as an opera writer, particularly with "La Perle du Bresil," from which one air is frequently extracted by sopranos for concert use. His chief production, of course, was the symphonic ode "Le Desert." He was one of the first composers to obtain eastern coloring in orchestral music. Ferdinand David, the German David, was an influential violin teacher. Among his pupils are numbered Joachim and Wilhelmj, which names are sufficient to attest his fame.

Samuel Sebastian Wesley, the Englishman, distinguished no less because of his father than because of his own talents as a composer, was born Aug. 4, 1810. Another English composer, Thomas Augustine Arne, will have his bicentenary on March 12 next.

One hundred years ago such men as Cherubini, Beethoven and Rossini and Spohr and Boieldieu were at work, and Auber, Schubert, Weber and Meyerbeer were preparing to enter the field of musical composition, which was afterward to make them famous.

Mr. Hammerstein's concert for the benefit of the Paris flood sufferers netted nearly $8000. Nearly all the artists of the company took part. At the Metropolitan benefit performance box office receipts were $9753. The resident French singers and chorus all made a brave noise. Forty stars participated in the performance.

Four new American song writers are on a program to be sung at Mendelssohn hall today by George S. Madden, baritone. The new songs are: "When You I Behold," by Oehmler, a Californian; "Since I Love," by Cadman of Pittsburg; "Cupid Armed," by Forester, also of Pittsburg, and "If Dreams Came True" and "Vagabond," by Joseph C. Breil, who also wrote "The Sons of the Soul" that figured in a popular stage play, "The Climax."

Unusual are De Koven's "Dawn," MacDowell's "West Wind," Elgar's "Is She Not Passing Fair?" Debussy's "The Bells," and Reger's "Schel Menliedchen."

The third private concert of the Manuscript Society took place last night at the National Arts Club. Manuscript works, as usual, made up the program. The following composers took part in the interpretation of their own compositions: Vassili Leps, Philadelphia; Edith Haines Kunster, New York; Alexander Russell, New York, and William J. Kraft, New York. Compositions for voice, violin and piano were performed by the following artists: Mesdames Wallace Cahill Ayer, Lorene Rogers-Wells, and William J. Kraft, vocalists; Hans Letz, violinist, and John Barnes Wells, tenor.

Alessandro Bonci next season will be heard in concert. The contract of this tenor expires this season and he has already made arrangements for a long tour, including every large city in America.

Mr. Bonci was brought to this country by Oscar Hammerstein and he sang at the opening of the Manhattan opera house in "I Puritani." The following season he was engaged to sing at the Metropolitan, where he has remained ever since. Outside cities have, as yet, had few opportunities to hear him.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

NORTON BUILDING SOLD BY C. H. LEWIS.

Valuable property in the wholesale district, which again changes hands at a figure in excess of the valuation of $176,900. Henry J. Nazro, Easton building, was the broker.

The Norton building shown in the accompanying illustration, numbered 93 to 95 Broad street, junction of and numbered 292 to 294 Franklin street, recently purchased by Clarence H. Lewis, the well-known realty operator of the Easton building, has been sold by him to William B. French and Mark C. Taylor, trustees of the Kilby Page estate. The location is in the wholesale section of the city and is a most important one, involving, as it does, nearly $177,000. It is said that Mr. Lewis realized a good advance over the price he paid for the property when he bought from Alfred Bowditch et al., trustees. The structure is a six-story brick one and there is a lot of 4113 square feet of land rated by the assessors as worth $106,900. The broker was Henry J. Nazro, Easton building.

Two other important transactions in which the same parties figure have just been completed. Henry J. Nazro was the agent in the sale for Mr. Lewis to William B. French and Mark C. Taylor, trustees of the Kilby Page estate, of the large brick apartment house at 1089 to 1091 Boylston street, junction of Ipswich street. The estate consists of a four-story brick structure containing eight thoroughly modern suites and 6820 square feet of land, the whole assessed on $83,000, of which amount the land carries $44,300. The price paid by the new owners, however, exceeded the tax valuation.

As part payment in the two deals, Clarence H. Lewis has taken from William B. French and Mark C. Taylor, trustees, three large five-story brick houses numbered 5-19 Battery street, between Hanover and Commercial streets, North End, and the consideration was in excess of the total rating of $46,100. There are 3972 square feet of land, taxed for $20,300.

Papers have been signed whereby Mr. Lewis will soon take title to a large brick and stone apartment house in the Back Bay, the total consideration being about $150,000. The title is being examined, and the final papers are expected to pass to record in a few days.

Mr. Lewis has closed negotiations for the sale of a downtown business parcel, considered one of the finest business structures in the northern part of the city placed on the market in some time. The amount involved is more than $250,000.

Several other sales of a smaller magnitude are under negotiation by Mr. Lewis, who states that there is considerable demand for all kinds of business property, and that there will be an active spring in all kinds of realty.

Mr. Lewis has sold to Morrison A. Bennett a lot of 5000 square feet in Spruce street, near the corner of Fifth street, Chelsea. John H. Lyons was the broker. An up-to-date house will be built on the site.

THE YARMOUTH AGAIN SOLD.

The large six-story octagon front brick apartment house known as Hotel Yarmouth and located at 21 Yarmouth street, corner of Truro street, in the Back Bay district, recently purchased by Roland Litchfield, has been sold by the latter to Pauline H. Simons. The property has an assessed valuation of $19,000 on the building and $6600 on the 2640 square feet of land upon which it stands.

The purchaser of this estate has also taken title from Mr. Litchfield to the frame house and stable and 9000 square feet of land numbered 77 Dix street, near Leslie street, Dorchester. This property is valued by the assessors at $4900, of which amount $1600 is the rating on the land.

ARTEMUS WARD ESTATE SOLD.

The old Artemus Ward estate in the North End at 21 to 23 Cross street, junction of Endicott street, has been purchased by Richard A. Roach of the Kimball building. The property comprises that occupied by that distinguished man for so many years. The sale to Mr. Roach at this time is the first since 1740, when it came into possession of Artemus Ward, the first judge advocate of Massachusetts. It is one of the old landmarks of the North End. Title is given by John M. Ward. The property, which from time to time has been improved for the purpose of keeping it intact, comprises a 3½-story brick structure, occupying 1056 square feet of land, taxed for $12,700, with a total rating of $14,600. Mr. Roach will remodel into an apartment house. There is a store on the lower floor.

SOUTH AND WEST ENDS.

A four-story and basement brick house in Rose street, near the corner of Albany street, South End, has been conveyed to Lena Partney, who took the title from Joseph Siegal. There is 1000 square feet of land, taxed for $2000, with a total rating of $6900.

The Manufacturers' Bottle Company has sold to Joseph Penan, who reconveyed to Isaac Sheinberg, the brick house, 3½ stories high, at 12 Grove street, near the corner of Phillips street, West End. The total taxed value is $5100, of which $2800 is on the 1017 square feet of land.

GOOD-SIZED ROXBURY SALE.

Jacob Swartz has acquired from Louis Finn the brick apartment house 5 to 7 Elbert street, Elm Hill district, Roxbury. It stands on 3333 square feet of land. The total rating is $10,500, and $1700 of this is on the land.

BUILDING IN AND ABOUT TOWN.

Contracts have been awarded and work is to begin as soon as conditions will permit upon the construction of a six-story concrete building on Beacon street for Eugene N. Foss, which it is understood is to be occupied, when completed, by the Auto Car Company as offices, salesrooms and New England headquarters.

The building is to be approximately 75x110 feet in area, as near fireproof as modern building methods can make it, and will cost, it is said, in the neighborhood of $125,000.

Work is to begin very soon on the construction of a large and handsome six-apartment house on the property numbered 720 and 722 Morton street, Dorchester, for L. L. Foley of 36 Warren street, Roxbury. The plans call for a brick and frame structure, three stories high and covering an area of 40x65 feet. The estimated cost is about $12,000, and the contracts will probably be let within a few days.

BRITAIN'S PREMIER CALLS CABINET FOR TWO DAYS RUNNING

LONDON—Premier Asquith, who returned to London from the continent Tuesday night, has called cabinet meetings for tomorrow and Friday. On Friday also he will probably go to Brighton to confer with the King.

The general understanding is that the reintroduction of the budget will be the first item on the new legislative program, and the chief Liberal whip predicts it will be law within a fortnight. This arrangement is deemed advisable because it is supposed the House of Lords reform proposition will bring an extended contest.

The tariff reformers will put the alliance of the Liberals and the Nationalists to the test at the earliest opportunity. They believe that the Irish electors are in favor of tariff reform and that the Redmondites cannot be depended upon to support a free trade government. Accordingly Austen Chamberlain will move an amendment to the address in Parliament raising the whole question of the existing fiscal system, in the hope that the Nationalists will either vote against the government or abstain from voting.

The two sections of the Irish party are already coming in grips. John E. Redmond, leader of the Nationalists, having called a party meeting at Dublin for today. Timothy Healy, M. P., for the north division of Louth, has written a letter to Mr. Redmond, challenging his action and claiming that every member elected, including himself, is entitled to be invited to the meeting.

COLLEGE STUDENT RINGS THE CHIMES

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J.—William B. Murray, a former member of the class of 1911 of Rutgers College, who obtained a free scholarship at Columbia University, is now engaged playing the chimes at historic Trinity church, New York, at a salary of $600 a year.

Mr. Murray had never played chimes before, but he had been the accompanist of the Rutgers College Glee Club, and he thought that if he could fill that place he could also hold the one at Trinity church.

LARGEST DRY DOCK IN WORLD PLANNED FOR SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO—This city expects to open the largest dry dock in the world about the time that the Panama canal is completed. It will be located at Hunters point, and its capacious rim will afford commodious berths for any two of the largest liners, merchantmen or battleships of the Pacific.

In maritime circles it is felt that such an enormous dry dock will add tremendously to the prestige of San Francisco's harbor.

Charles Schwab, Pennsylvania's great ironmaster and the head of the enormous steel plant at Bethlehem, Pa., is accredited with backing the purpose to build this remarkable dry dock, the plans for which are in possession of Howard C. Holmes, an eminent civil engineer with a specialty for such work.

The plan is reported to have taken definite form soon after the Bethlehem Steel Company acquired the Union Iron Works and the San Francisco Dry Dock Company, which latter already has two large dry docks at Hunters point, though neither approaches the mammoth proportions of the one Mr. Schwab expects to have ready by 1915.

The proposed dimensions of the new marine basin are 1050 feet over all length, 144 feet beam from rim to rim, and 92 feet across the floor of the dry dock, which will be 40 feet in depth.

BIG SUM GIVEN FOR EDUCATION

NEW YORK—Neils Poulson, president of the Hecla Iron Works in Brooklyn, has given a fund of $100,000 to the American-Scandinavian Society for educational purposes. Among the objects of the society, which has offices in this city, is to bring the United States and Scandinavian countries into closer relations by an exchange of professors between their universities and by bringing Scandinavian students to this country for post-graduate courses.

SEEK MAGISTRATE'S REMOVAL.

ALBANY, N. Y.—State Excise Commissioner Clement has instituted proceedings for the removal from office of Daniel E. Finn, a city magistrate of New York. Magistrate Finn is charged with "unwarranted, unjust and unlawful hostility" to enforcement of the liquor tax law. He will be given a hearing in New York Feb. 18.

NEW GUNS GUARD BOSTON CITIZENS

Two new 10-inch guns have been mounted at Battery Burbank, Ft. Standish, Boston harbor. The work, which has been carried on with secrecy, was performed by members of the coast artillery companies who will man the big weapons. The guns are products of the Watervliet (N. Y.) arsenal and the carriages come from the Watertown arsenal.

Although the armament is increased, Brig.-Gen. Arthur Murray is not satisfied. He will continue his efforts to secure more guns. The batteries are now equipped with 3-inch, 6-inch and 10-inch guns.

The harbor is one of the best mined on the Atlantic coast, but in the matter of searchlights is sadly lacking, according to the same authority.

ANNOUNCE CIVIL SERVICE TESTS

Three special examinations are announced by the United States civil service commission, to be held in Boston next month.

On March 9 two tests will be held, one for junior animal husbandman in the bureau of animal industry at $1500 per annum, and another for chemist in the bureau of standards at $2000 to $3000 per year.

There will be an examination for male assistant in the bureau of fisheries on March 30. The salary is from $720 to $900 per annum.

MR. GAYNOR FAVORS SINGLE TAX REFORM FOR NEW YORK CITY

NEW YORK—Exponents of civic reform, single taxers and proportional representation advocates today are discussing the steps taken Tuesday by Mayor Gaynor looking to the possible abolishment of personal taxation.

Calling the law crude and its results grotesque, the mayor addressed a letter to President Purdy of the tax board embodying his ideas and asking to be informed how much the tax rate would be raised by the abolishment of personal assessments, and as to whether it were not true that the persons who paid taxes on real estate did not pay a substantial part of the personal taxes collected.

The mayor says he is taking this action to arouse an intelligent public discussion of the question, so that after a full consideration of the matter a bill can be drawn to do away with what he terms an evil, if public opinion should seem to demand it. It would not be timely to introduce such a bill this year, the mayor believes.

One of the strongest points urged by the mayor against the present system of personal taxation is the tangled condition of the city's finances that has resulted through a failure to collect most of the personal tax levies.

It is understood that Commissioner Purdy is fully in accord with the mayor on the subject of personal taxation. He would not talk about the subject before replying to the mayor, but it is known that he has long chafed under what he believes to be the inequalities of the personal tax system.

The tax rate in Manhattan last year was 1.678. It was said today that if the money actually collected in personal taxes were not counted in making up the rate it would have been advanced only a few points.

Persons familiar with the personal tax law call it a farce. "Any one able to get competent legal advice has been able to evade the law, and has made no secret of his purpose to do so," said one well-informed man. "The city usually collects personal taxes on estates for one year, the one after the schedule of the estate is filed with the surrogate, but executors have felt they were derelict in their duty if they did not convert the estate into non-taxable securities or into real estate before the next year's tax books came out."

Judge Morgan J. O'Brien said he favored the mayor's proposition of a single tax providing it could be worked without imposing a burden on real estate. The present system undoubtedly is open to abuse, he stated, because of the difficulty in reaching the personal property of residents.

Jefferson M. Levy, a large owner of Manhattan realty, said:

"While I do not wish to oppose anything that the mayor proposes, because I know his judgment is very good and that he has the interests of the citizens of New York at heart, nevertheless I must disagree with him on the line of the single tax theory."

Edward M. Grout, formerly controller, said he always had favored the single tax plan.

"It is more practical and could be done at once without working any harm to real estate," he said.

Walter Stabler, controller of the Metropolitan Insurance Company, said: "I may say, that in connection with many others the present method of assessing personal property appear to be most unscientific and impracticable."

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.—A committee of Democrats of this city has sent an invitation to Mayor Gaynor of New York to attend the celebration of the birthday of Thomas Jefferson April 16. It is hoped that Mayor Gaynor will speak.

The invitation to Mayor Gaynor says: "The recent Democratic triumph in the special congressional election in our state indicates that the trend of public sentiment is with our party on the issues now engaging public attention. Missouri Democrats are expecting a victory in 1912 and many are beginning to believe that New York will furnish our national leader."

ASSAILS PURPOSE OF SUBSIDY BILL

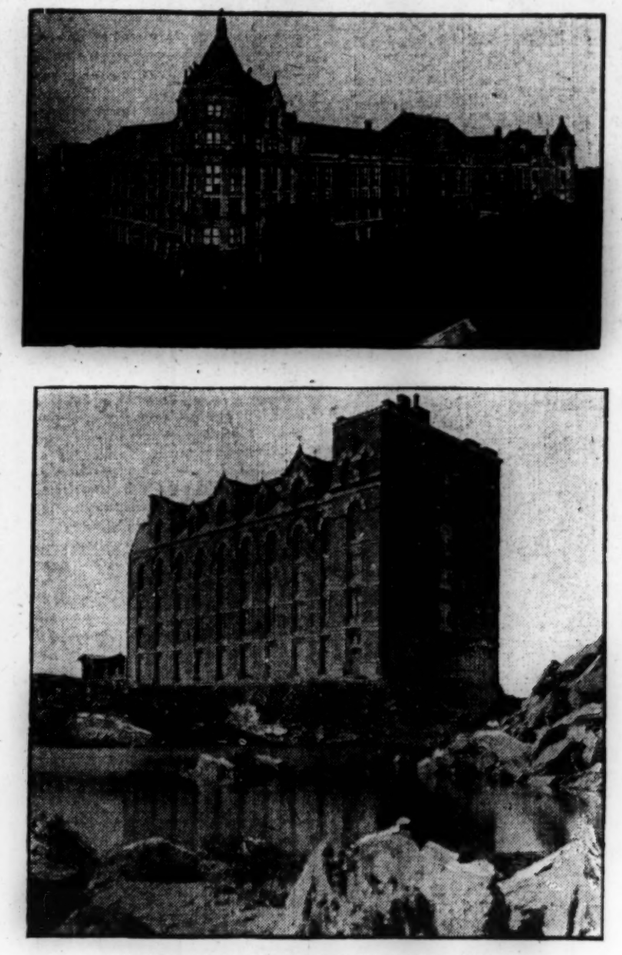

NEW YORK—R. P. Schwerin, vice-president and general manager of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company and chief adviser of the late E. H. Harriman in maritime matters, writing his views of the Humphrey ship subsidy bill to Representative Duncan E. McKinlay of California, charges that the bill "is aimed at corporate interests deliberately and that it will be a direct benefit to the Japanese steamship lines competing with the Pacific Mail. He points out that the bill says the postmaster-general cannot contract with any steamship line owned or controlled or having traffic assistance of any railroad company not given to any other American line.

MILLION DOLLAR ROAD CHARTERED

ALBANY, N. Y.—The Westchester Northern Railroad Company of White Plains has been incorporated with a capital of $1,000,000, to operate a steam or electric railroad 45 miles long, of which 35 miles is to be in New York and 10 miles in Connecticut.

The main line is to be operated from a connection with the New York, Westchester & Boston line at White Plains, to the line of the New York, New Haven & Hartford at Danbury, Conn. There will be a branch line 14 miles long from Pound ridge, Westchester county, to the New York, New Haven & Hartford line in Putnam county.

GREAT GROWTH OF NATURAL HISTORY MUSEUM IS SHOWN

when the society was formed. Joseph C. Choate and J. Pierpont Morgan were cofounders with Mr. Jesup. The corner-stone of the museum building, which is eventually to cover all of Manhattan square from Seventy-seventh to Eighty-first streets, between Columbus avenue and Central Park west, was laid in 1874 by General Ulysses S. Grant. For years only the central portion of what now constitutes the building was in use.

The first president of the museum was John David Wolfe, who served until 1872. The second president, who served from 1872 to 1881, was Robert L. Stuart. Mr. Jesup assumed the office in 1881 and remained at the head for 27 years, during which time the museum increased from a series of small collections until its influence extended throughout the civilized world. By his will he left it an endowment of $1,000,000, thus showing his faith in its great future.

Mr. Jesup equipped costly expeditions at his own expense to penetrate the jungles of Africa and he aided in sending Commander Peary to explore the polar seas. One of the principal collections is the Jesup collection of woods, gathered at great cost from many climes. Many of the expeditions which went to the southwest in search of the fossil remains of prehistoric animals were of his devising and financing.

The memorial this afternoon will be unveiled in connection with the celebration of the fortieth anniversary of the museum. The statue, as shown in the picture, is in Carrara marble, representing the benefactor seated in a massive chair. The funds for its erection were raised by the trustees of the museum and their friends. The sculptor is William Couper of this city, who also modeled the busts of the men which are in niches in the foyer.

Mr. Choate will deliver the oration of the day, in which he will speak of the distinguished services of Mr. Jesup to the museum and to popular education. The statue will then be formally unveiled and presented and the response will be made by the mayor.

WHY A DOLLAR BUYS TODAY SAME AS 62 CENTS IN 1896

Prof. J. Pease Norton of Yale Advocates New "Commodity" Basis for Money to End Price Changes.

NEW YORK—Increased production of gold is the principal cause of high prices, according to J. Pease Norton, professor of political economy at Yale University. In an article in this week's Independent Professor Morton says:

"When mining engineers and chemists succeed in devising methods of extracting gold from ore as low in grade as $5 per ton at a profit, the potential supply of gold enormously increased. As a result of these scientific discoveries, the annual production of gold began to mount at an increasing rate in the nineties.

"Bradstreet's index of average prices indicates an advance of 60 percent in prices since July 1, 1896. In other words, a dollar's worth of goods today could have been purchased for 62 cents in 1896. During the past 13 years prices have maintained an average advance of 4½ per cent per annum.

"The gold inflation is world-wide and prices everywhere have moved upward in response. In the United States the rise in prices has been intensified by three causes, which probably are, in order of importance, the banknote laws, the storage and cold storage development and the tariff.

"If the advances for prices for the United States and England are contrasted, the increases are 60 and 40 per cent respectively. It is reasonable to infer that two thirds of the advance in this country probably are due to the gold and banknote inflation and one third to other causes such as the trusts and the tariff.

"At the present time popular clamor seeks to fix the responsibility upon the trusts, just as in Washington's day a similar agitation resulted in laws against 'forestallers and monopolists,' whereas the true cause lay in the depreciating continental currency. 'Not worth a continental' in the future may be substituted by the phrase 'Not worth a gold dollar;' for how serious the situation may become nobody knows."

Professor Norton proposes as a remedy the adoption of a new standard to supplant the gold dollar. He calls it the "dill," which would be an imaginary unit or basis of exchange whose value would be equal to the purchasing power of one gold dollar of specific quantities of staple commodities as designated in federal law. The plan would include also a central bank, which would issue on demand to banks and to a system of licensed storehouses "dill" credit notes to the extent of 10 per cent of the value of gold, silver or commodities on hand.

Ramblings of a Stub Pen

New York Daily Letter.

NEW YORK—Lieut.-Commander Lay H. Everhart has submitted his annual report on the work of the nautical school to the board of estimate. It gives the total attendance during the past year as 188, compared with 99 the year before. All told 142 applications were received. During the year 38 withdrew, 10 were dropped, 14 were dismissed and 37 graduated.

More attention is being given to the instruction of the cadets in the duties of the merchant marine. The department of commerce and labor, the navy department and the department of docks and ferries in this city have taken great interest in the school.

Greater attention has also been paid to the entrance examinations, with the result that the condition of the cadets is better.

More Nautical School Cadets Taught

The report also calls attention to the fact that the nautical school is now being recognized by the public as a concrete part of the educational system, and that admission is denied to the vicious or incorrigible, as is the case with any other public school.

Of the class recently graduated, about one-half received positions at sea within a few weeks. Employment has been found in the merchant marine, vessels of the lighthouse establishment, the collier service, and the navy.

Plans for the annual police parade are now well under way. The police department has already communicated with the military authorities for permission to use various armories for drilling purposes. The drills will commence shortly if the negotiations are successful.

It is likely that the parade day will be May 8, as it was last year. The route will probably be, as on former occasions, up Broadway and Madison avenue and down Fifth avenue.

William H. Boyes, the inventor of a monorail system of subway and elevated railroad construction, gave a talk here recently on the merits of his plan and of the changes in the present methods of passenger transportation that would be wrought through the adoption of his invention.

"A seat for every one, with a possible fare of 1 or 2 cents," was one of the promises he held out to an audience of New Yorkers. The reason why there are so many strap hangers, he said, was because of the enormous weight and cost of operating existing transportation systems. A subway car of the present type, he pointed out, weighs 47 tons and seats 40 passengers. A monorail car, he averred, would weigh one and one half tons and seat 48 persons.

Axford, who has testified that the claimant is not Daniel Blake Russell, told of happenings in the home and persons she had seen there, including a banquet at which the Hon. DR. WILEY TO SPEAK BEFORE TECHNOLOGY

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chemist of the United States department of agriculture's bureau of chemistry at Washington, will talk this evening before the members of the Society of Arts of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in the 667th meeting of the organization.

The subject of the talk will be "The Services of Chemistry in the Promotion of the Public Welfare." Thirty years ago Dr. Wiley started his fight against the interests profiting by the adulteration of the food products of the nation and has been fighting ever since for pure food. Dr. Wiley is well known as a member of the American Chemical Society and took a prominent part in the recent convention held in Boston.

"New England farms offer a great opportunity. Buy them," said Dr. Wiley in a speech delivered before the Agricultural College Alumni Club at Young's Tuesday night.

The speaker declared that with proper cultivation New England farms could be made as profitable as those of the West. He dwelt at length on the high cost of living, and declared it was because of the tendency of American people to buy things by the package instead of in bulk.

Other speakers were Dr. David Snedden, state commissioner of education, and Dr. J. B. Paige of the Massachusetts Agricultural College.

The club elected the following officers: President, Atherton Clark, '99; secretary, H. W. Dana, '99; treasurer, W. A. Morse, '82; directors, F. G. May, 82; Bertram Tupper, '05, and H. E. Crane, '92.

REBELS REPORTED NEARING MANAGUA

BLUEFIELDS (via wireless to Colon)—An attack on Managua is almost certain within the next 48 hours, according to messages arriving here today from the interior. These messages say that General Chamorro has withdrawn from Boaca and is now marching at the head of nearly 2500 troops toward Managua, less than 40 miles away.

The main body of the government army, sent out to check the advance of Chamorro, is held back at Santo Domingo by General Mena and there is no army worth the name to oppose Chamorro's advance against the capital. Reports of government successes continue to be received here, but they are wholly discredited. A courier from the front, who has just arrived at Muelle de Los Bueyes, confirms the sweeping victories of General Mena at LaGarita and Santa Clara.

FOREST SERVICE PLAN SUBMITTED

WASHINGTON—A plan now up to the President for approval outlines the general policy to be followed by the forest service and the general land office in determining the lands to be classed as within the national forests.

Timbered lands, those valuable as protective forests in regard to irrigation or the water supply of communities, and small bodies of land scattered through the forests which it is impracticable to eliminate, are the principal areas to be confined within the forest reserves, according to the plan.

MINISTER OF FRANCE TELLS HOW COUNTRY

PARIS—Aristide Briand, premier and minister of the interior, gave to the United Press today the following official statement yet made by the government will do in assisting those damaged by the flood, which shows a surprising tendency of the government toward paternalism.

The statement is the only detailed statement yet mad eby the government. Incidentally M. Briand asks the United Press to extend the thanks of the French government for the aid furnished by the American people. M. Briand says in part:

"The government proposes to recompense as far as possible the wage losses sustained by workmen who were thrown out of employment by the flood. We will also replace to as great an extent as possible the furniture and household effects of the poor people.

"The generous gifts from America and other countries and the $4,000,000 which has been asked of the Chamber of Deputies will be devoted largely to this phase of the government's relief.

"By a system of small loans, with probably no interest charged and the easiest possible terms of repayment, we will assist the farmers and small industrial concerns to get on their feet again. Outside of Paris, the heaviest loss has fallen on the farmers, many of whom have lost their livestock and their stored products, as well as their household effects. They will need immediate relief through the medium of loans.

"The French have not short memories and we will never forget the generosity shown by America in our recent calamity."

Maj. Henry L. Higginson, treasurer of the Paris flood relief committee of Massachusetts, today acknowledges the following contributions:

ROBNETT VERDICT PROBABLY GUILTY

It is believed at the Charlestown navy yard today that a verdict of guilty was found in the court martial of Past Assistant Surgeon Aussey H. Robnett on the charge of conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman.

This belief is strengthened by the attitude of the judge advocate, Maj. Albert W. Catlin, who made no argument, saying that the testimony had shown no contradiction of the main points of the charges. Maj. Henry Leonard was heard in behalf of Dr. Robnett, however. It is said a loss of 10 or 15 numbers was probably recommended by the court. The sealed verdict was forwarded to Washington, where it will be made public.

Market Closes Strong After Good Advance

STOCK MARKET IS WELL-SUPPORTED DURING SESSION

Opening Marked With Much Buoyancy and Good Gains Are Made During Early Sales by Nearly Entire List.

BOSTON IS STRONG

More pronounced strength was shown by the New York market at the opening and during the first sales than has been noted since the slump started several weeks ago. The opening prices ranged a point or more above the opening, and the advance continued in an orderly fashion indicating that the big interests were inclined to check the downward movement for the time being at least.

United States Steel was most conspicuous in the advance although the entire list was buoyant and many shorts were forced to cover. It is believed that the short interest is very extensive, many bears having thought that a much lower level would be established before there would be much of an advance.

The most encouraging feature of the last day or two has been the extensive buying for investment account. Both the large interests and the small investors have been buyers at the low level of prices. Some of the more conservative houses have expressed the belief that prices will not make a great advance in the near future, at least not until there has been some definite news from Washington regarding corporation legislation and investigation. However, it is contended that the most drastic kind of legislation has been discounted already by the market.

Steel opened-up 1¼ at 76½ and advanced over a point further. Union Pacific opened 1⅜ higher at 180 and improved about 2 points during the forenoon. Reading at 138¼ was up 2 points at the opening and improved nearly a point more.

Amalgamated Copper opened 2⅛ higher at 72½ and after receding fractionally advanced about a point. American Smelting at 78 was up 1½ at the opening. It reacted fractionally and then improved with the rest of the market. Chesapeake & Ohio opened up 1½ at 80 and improved over 1½.

The Boston market showed considerable strength. The coppers were particularly active. Arizona Commercial opened up a point at 38½ and sold above 39 during the forenoon. Superior Copper opened a point higher at 51, reacted fractionally and then advanced to 52. North Butte opened ½ higher at 34½ and improved a good fraction. Lake Copper opened 3 points higher at 75, reacted about a point and then advanced over 2 points further. United Fruit opened off a point at 174 and then advanced about 2 points.

The directors of the Lancaster Mills have declared a quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent, payable March 1 to stock of record Feb. 8.

The International Smelting & Refining Company has declared a quarterly dividend of 2 per cent payable March 1. The last quarterly payment made by the company was 1½ per cent.

The American Sugar Refining Company has declared the regular quarterly dividends of 1¾ per cent each on its preferred and common stocks, payable April 2 to holders of record March 1.

The Hamilton Steel Company has increased its dividend from 6 to 8 per cent per annum, the expectation being that the company will shortly go into a merger with the Montreal Rolling Mills Company.

The directors of the Quaker Oats Company declared a dividend for the quarter of 2 per cent, an increase of ½ per cent, and placing the stock on an 8 per cent annual basis. An extra dividend of ½ of 1 per cent was also declared on the common, both payable April 15 to stock of record April 1. The regular quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent was declared on the preferred stock, payable Feb. 28 to stock of record Feb. 15 and the regular quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent on the preferred stock payable May 31 to stock of record May 2. The reason assigned for declaring that May dividend is that the company wishes to set its dates ahead so that it will have more time in which to make these payments.

THE GRAIN MARKET.

C. F. G. G. W. Eddy, Inc., of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, received the following from their Chicago correspondent:

Wheat—The wheat market was quiet and firm. It seemed to be affected by the reports of lighter offerings in the country although the actual receipts in the Northwest were heavy compared with last year. The total at Minneapolis and Duluth was 500 cars against 67 a year ago. There were some unfavorable crop reports from the Southwest, but on the other hand the Northwest miller claims that best informed people place little credence in such reports.

Corn—Market was quiet and firm. There was fairly good buying during the morning and quite a little interest was attracted by the report of the Orange Judd Farmer on the quality of the seed corn.

Oats—The market for oats was also firmer. Prices worked up slowly with a fairly good class of buying. The receipts were not so heavy and there seemed to be a better interest shown in spot oats. There has been a fair trade in spot oats reported on the recent decline.

PARK OFFICER RESCUES THREE.

Metropolitan Park Officer E. J. Doyle's prompt action saved two women and a man from the Charles river at Watertown late Tuesday. By the use of a rope and ladder he got them from the river into which they had fallen near north Beacon street bridge, opposite the arsenal.

HAMBURG—The annual statement of the Hamburg-American Steamship Company shows a dividend for 1909 of 6 per cent as against no dividend in 1908.

The gross profits for the last year were about $8,000,000 as compared with $3,950,000 for the preceding year. About $5,000,000 was written off and carried in the reserve. The liquid assets at the end of 1909 amounted to $8,500,000, against $4,500,000 a year ago.

CHILD LABOR CHANGE URGED.

BOSTON & MAINE R.R. LINE PLANS OUTLAY OF MANY MILLIONS

Further Betterments Are Ordered at This Week's Meeting of Directors, Including New Double Trackage.

SERVICE IMPROVED

The directors of the Boston & Maine are still voting improvements. At Tuesday's meeting they approved the action of the executive committee in recommending the expenditure of $125,000 on the White Mountain division between Concord and Woodsville. At the present time the 80-ton locomotives are not capable of hauling the heavy passenger trains on time over the mountain grades and if heavier equipment is used some of the bridges and trestles must be strengthened.

The money voted for the improvements at this point will be used to bring up the road to such a standard of efficiency as will permit the new 100-ton locomotives to bring through the heavy passenger trains on time.

The same condition prevails on that section of the Fitchburg division between Boston and Greenfield, and in order to place this piece of road in shape to carry a heavier load, $200,000 will be voted for similar improvements.

The board also approved plans which were presented for building a new double-track section in New Hampshire between Newmarket and Madbury. This new line will be about 8¼ miles long and will replace a very crooked piece of road. The cost of this work will be $550,000.

The president was also authorized to purchase 100 new first-class passenger cars at a cost of about $900,000.

We summarize Tuesday's appropriations as follows:

On White mountain division between Concord and Woodsville	$125,000
On Fitchburg division between Boston and Greenfield	200,000
New line between Newmarket and Madbury	550,000
100 new passenger cars	900,000
Total	$1,775,000

A month ago the directors voted $300,000 for new stations and for the Gloucester branch extension, and something over $2,000,000 to be expended at Salem. In addition, the company is committed to an expenditure of $3,000,000 for the abolition of grade crossings at Lynn, which, together with appropriations made for 1000 new steel underframe freigit cars, and for acetylene lights for switches and signals, etc., will bring total improvements, soon to be under way, including Tuesday's appropriations, up to a total closely approximating $10,000,000.

The engineering department of the Boston & Maine announced today that it would not wait for spring in order to begin next season's improvements, but that it would inaugurate work at once The long list of improvements planned by the directors makes this action imperative. More money will be spent for improvement work by the Boston & Maine system during the current year than in any year since its inception.

Announcement was made that a contract has been let to the Phoenix Bridge Company for the laying of a steel bridge at Mystic avenue, Charlestown. This brings to a close a long standing controversy that has been of more concern to the public than to the litigants. With the completion of this work the Boston Elevated railway will be able to run its heavy cars to Spot pond over this bridge, thus shortening the trip and relieving the present congestion on Broadway, Somerville. The contract amounts to approximately $50,000.

Although construction work has been under way at Mystic wharf for over a year, it has been planned to spend an additional $20,000 on a further extension of the grain galleries. This contract has been awarded to Pitman & Brown Company of Salem. This will permit the railroad to handle more efficiently the expected increase in the Mediterranean trade in the spring.

Wakefield is to have a new freight house. The increase in the manufacturing output of the town has made it imperative that the facilities for handling freight be increased. The contract for the work has been let to Lewis Killiam of Haverhill.

The Fletcher Lahey Company of Haverhill have been awarded a contract which will amount to at least $150,000 for the excavation of a ledge at South Lawrence. This is to be a part of the work which is now under way which has for its purpose the extension of the Lawrence freight yards.

GERMAN COAL PRODUCTION.

Coal production in Germany in 1909 was 148,966,000 tons, compared with 148,621,000 in 1908, and of lignite or brown coal, 68,355,000

INDEPENDENCE OF GREAT WEST

Railroad Ex-President Says Western Section of Country Is Opposed to Methods of Eastern Lawmakers.

NEW YORK—"The great West, with its varied industries and its millions of dollars invested in permanent industries is growing very tired of Wall street domination and Washington misrepresentation. Congress is controlled by New York and New England bankers, and manufacturers have made up a tariff which it is felt in the West is largely responsible for the high cost of living and this the West resents. You may decidedly look for more and more independence from my section of the country and for a gradual eclipsing of the eastern domination."

A. B. Stickney, former president of the Chicago & Great Western Railway, today in his apartment in the Waldorf, where he is staying, summed up his impressions of national affairs. Industrial conditions, in his opinion are in excellent shape and the agitation throughout the country is not harming business.

"The West is doing big business, making money and keeping every one employed," he declared, "and has little time to watch the fluctuations of a stock ticker. It is economically independent of the East and is ashamed of the many stock manipulating schemes that are periodically brought to light in Wall street."

EXTEND ROAD INTO MEXICO

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—According to a statement made by G. W. Nock of New York city, constructing engineer of the San Antonio, Rio Grande & Tampico railroad, the line he is building will be pushed as far south as Tampico, Mex. A few miles of the road have already been graded. Owing to the fact that not all financial arangements had been made work on the line so far has been slow, but a large force will now be put in the field.

The road will run in almost a straight line from here to Brownsville or a point nearby and after crossing the Rio Grande will follow the gulf coast to Tampico. One of the richest agricultural territories in the United States will be opened by it. J. F. Edwards of St. Louis and a number of San Antonio capitalists are the promoters of the venture. A bonus of $100,000 will be given them by San Antonio business men as soon as the line has reached the Rio Grande and is in operation.

ENLARGE SERVICE OF PACIFIC MAIL

CITY OF MEXICO—The Pacific Mail Steamship Company has increased the service on the San Francisco to Panama route, providing for a weekly sailing from San Francisco to the south, as well as steamers returning north at the same intervals. Hitherto the Pacific Mail has despatched one steamer every nine days for Panama and the 16 intermediate ports of call in Mexico and Central America.

The new weekly service began with the sailing of the City of Sydney on Feb. 5, and the steamers to follow at intervals of seven days, will be the City of Panama, Newport, Peru, San Jose, Pennsylvania, Acapulco and San Juan.

PRESSED STEEL CAR IS BUSY

NEW YORK—Pressed Steel Car Company is at present doing a good business. All plants are operating at full capacity, with orders enough on the books to keep them running at this rate for some time.

The strike of the axle turners at Pittsburg did not delay operations to any appreciable extent.

Notwithstanding loss of time caused by the strike at Pittsburg last summer, the report of the company for year ended Dec. 31, 1909, which will be made public Feb. 16, is expected to show a large improvement over that of 1908, for, with the exception of the period of the strike, the company received its share of the large orders placed by the railroads since June 1, 1909.

NEW WITNESS IN ALLDS CASE.

ALBANY, N. Y.—Hiram G. Moe, veteran ex-bank cashier of Groton, N. Y., declared positively on Tuesday before the state Senate inquiry in the Allds bribery charge, that on April 23, 1901, he handed Senator Allds an envelope containing $1000, in an assembly committee room at the capital.

BANK DEPOSITS AT PITTSBURG.

PITTSBURG—The deposits of the 29 national banks of Pittsburg made a new high mark for the recent call showing deposits of $193,957,000 as compared with $193,273,000 last November. This is a gain of $22,500,000 over the lowest reported during the panic.

BETTER DEMAND PREVAILS FOR WOOLS FOR WORSTED FABRICS

Inquiry for Lower Cost Product, However, Dominates the Market, Crossbreds Becoming More Popular and the Prices Firmer — Importations for the Past Year.

There is more inquiry for wools suitable for worsted fabrics at present than has prevailed for some time past, although the movement of stock has not assumed much activity. A better demand is anticipated, however, for the near future, the goods market having shown signs of renewed interest in this variety of finished product.

The character of the trading at the sales just concluded abroad having been determined, and the strength of the continental wool situation pretty accurately gauged, dealers on this side are better able to shape their course for the remainder of the first quarter of the year.

It is accepted quite generally that the demand for a lower cost product on every hand is crowding the higher priced worsted goods, as well as the wools from which they are made, harder than has been the case for several years.

Incidentally, the competing wools of the crossbred type, which are pronouncedly in better favor than usual at the present time, have shown gains in value, actual and relative, that make them desirable property.

It is calculated that these wools will continue to maintain the advantage they have acquired; also that, unless the worsted fabrics find a better market than they have encountered thus far in the newly opened season in this country, a slightly softer tone to quotations may be required in order to induce buying with any degree of activity in the finer grades of raw material.

This country is credited with wool importations for 1909 of 312,000,000 pounds. In 1897 this record was exceeded, but that was when buyers were bringing forward large quantities of duty free wool in anticipation of the reenactment of a high protective duty on wool.

The feature of the importations of the year was the large amount of class 3 material to meet the revised demand for carpets, rugs and coarse woolens. It is calculated that there passed from first hands, during the year recently closed, upward of 550,000,000 pounds of wool, an extraordinary amount, while some 50,000,000 pounds were carried over into this year's stocks.

The fact has been apparent for some time that fashion, as well as economy, was disposed to dictate a change from the long domination of worsteds, in men's apparel especially, and the combination of lower cost with the desire for variety in fabric has been conducive of late to considerable change in the outlook along these lines.

The comparative neglect of fine grade wools for a few weeks past has tended to emphasize the amount available and to cause them to accumulate somewhat, if the advancing season is taken into account, for the time of new domestic clips is now rapidly approaching.

Little contracting has been done thus far, although shearing will soon be in full swing throughout Texas, southern California and the Southwest generally. Some of the Boston merchants are sending their representatives West and reports of deals made or attempted with growers are beginning to be heard.

Views of the stock raisers regarding prices, however, are considered prohibitive, as a rule, and there will have to be much negotiating and dickering, it is said, before transactions can be closed.

Values in the eastern markets are fairly steady, although offerings of the finer grades might be closed out at slightly less than asking figures if buyers made it an object for holders to do so by taking large lots.

Recent transactions in this market have included a fair amount of both foreign and domestic quarters. South American and New Zealand offerings figuring, as they did earlier in the month, in the parcels changing hands. For pulled and scoured wools there is also some call and suitable lines of class 3 imports find further outlet through clothing mills instead of their ordinary channels, the carpet manufactories. Fine fleeces are in moderate request.

THE LIBRARY ALCOVE

By SAM WALTER FOSS.

THE great wall of China was once considered impregnable to the attacks of an invader, but a modern cannonade would tumble it like a pile of child's blocks. The wall around Quebec would not withstand a modern army with modern artillery. A walled town to a modern invader would seem about as formidable as a town with a rail fence around it. A wall of battleships before a coast city is a good defense until a more modern fleet of battleships opens fire. The battleship of a generation ago goes down before the battleship of today. No fortifications, floating or stationary, can long withstand an enemy equipped with more modern appliances for demolition and destruction. So the nations of the earth are spending millions and hundreds of millions of dollars in order to be able to defend themselves against their fellow nations, if their fellow nations should chance to fall upon them.

This is all a gigantic object lesson to teach the nations the awful folly of war. This process will go on until it becomes unendurable, and until through sheer exhaustion this great world-folly of war will be finally abandoned.

After this devoutly wished consummation is effected there will be more money to spend upon other and higher methods of national defense. Sara A. Burstall, an English writer, in a book called "Impressions of American Education," in referring to American teachers, says "they belong to a profession which is respected, and considered as a means of national defense, like the navy here." Here is a new kind of sailor and soldier—the American teacher. But, with Miss Burstall's permission, the American librarian applies for enlistment in this army also.

The librarian is a soldier whose work equips him for the national defense. The country is increasingly populated with hordes of foreign immigrants, and we are glad that no hostile navy repels them from our shores. But it is the business of our schools to give their children fair American education; and it is the business of our public libraries to continue this education indefinitely in all their after lives. This is the way for the new army to bombard the fortresses of ignorance with invincible artillery. There is no danger whatever in foreign immigration if all our foreign immigrants can be educated. These foreigners will add new strains to our national characteristics, and make of us, in time, a powerful composite nation—the first great cosmopolitan people.

Many immigrants come to us ignorant, but they come to us strong and sturdy. Let the schoolmaster and the librarian train educational guns upon their ignorance and teach them how to use their wholesome strength along the lines of modern world development. There are dynamic possibilities in these ignorant immigrants for the rehabilitation of the earth. Let the schoolmaster and the librarian capture and confiscate their ignorance, and then turn them out gladly as intelligent world-smiths into a country that greatly needs them.

But there are going to be plenty of wars in the future—peaceful wars of competition, of international rivalries of trade; wars of skill waged by manufacturers and artizans and artists. Our national defense will be made up of a trained soldiery of the peaceful arts. The librarian should furnish these soldiers with their ammunition. If we want to sell our manufactured products in Germany, we must manufacture them better than the Germans can do it themselves; and, in order to do this, we must train up more intelligent workmen than the Germans—and this is not a trifling task to undertake. We must get over our overweening national conceit and train up a national citizenship a little superior to the citizenship of foreign countries, if we wish to maintain an industrial and commercial ascendency among the peoples of the world.

Here is a big campaign for the librarian. It is probable that the old type of conquerors—Hannibal, Caesar, Napoleon—never undertook a campaign commensurate with it. This training of the raw world for the march of intelligence is a military feat of some importance. There is a long and epochal march of intelligence just ahead of us in America, and the public librarian should hold himself, as under contract, to furnish the soldiers who are about to enter upon this march the best and most modern ammunition.

Wise statesmen who know, or who think they know, consider it essential to keep on enlarging the great national navies for awhile longer. Perhaps they are right for a little while, and would regard the advice of a mere distributor of books of but little worth. But the time is nevertheless coming, later on, when some great Napoleon of peace will arise who will make the world see the futility of the old warfare, and will inaugurate the new campaigns whose missiles are books and reviews and newspapers, and whose admirals and brigadiers are schoolmasters, editors and librarians. These unmilitary captains are a mild folk, and will not make so much noise in the world as the old blood-and-iron type. They will not detonate and reverberate so thunderously, but they will fight a more extended campaign and execute wider maneuvers than the old-fashioned conquerors ever dreamed of. When the nations stop building battleships, let them give the money these ships cost to their schoolmasters and their librarians and they may then see some big fighting and look for a sure victory.

Ah, there is a fine long war ahead of us, the very thought of which stirs the cockles of a soldier's heart!

PREDICT BUMPER CROPS THIS YEAR

SPOKANE—Fruit Inspector Darlington has made a report on the prospects for a fruit crop during 1910. He says 3500 cars will be necessary to carry the coming crop, estimating that it will require 1,320,000 apple boxes, or 21,000 cars; 700,000 peach boxes, or 700 cars, and 700 cars will be required to carry fruit and vegetables of other kinds.

Mr. Darlington has pointed out that in 1908, when the biggest crop of the valley was marketed, 1918 cars were required, 395 cars being required to move the peach crop and 623 cars to carry the apples and smaller fruit. The great increase in the bearing orchards will produce nearly 75 per cent more crop than in 1908.

THE HOUSEKEEPER

Hints That May Help.

TUCKED OVER-BLOUSE.

THE over-blouse is such a pretty, useful, becoming garment that each new one must be heartily welcomed. Here is an excellent example of the very latest style. The sleeves and body portion are cut in one, yet the sleeves are snug under the arm and are tucked over the shoulders to provide graceful fulness. Any guimpe that may be liked can be worn beneath and the over-blouse will be found appropriate for material to match the skirt or for the thinner material in matching color that is so much liked this season. Marquisette, chiffon cloth and the new heavy cable nets are especially to be commended among the latter. Crepe de chine with banding of messaline makes the over-blouse illustrated, however.

6557—Tucked Over Blouse. 32 to 40 bust.

The quantity of material required for the medium size is 2⅜ yards 21 or 24, 1⅞ yards 32 or 1¼ yards 44 inches wide with 2 yards of banding.

The pattern (6557) may be had in sizes from 32 to 40 inches bust measure and can be obtained at any May Manton agency or will be mailed to any address on receipt of price (10c.). Address 132 East Twenty-third street, New York; or Masonic Temple, Chicago, Ill.

TUCKED BLOUSE.

The blouse that is trimmed to give a slender effect to the figure is always a becoming one. This model is made of fine lawn and trimmed with lace banding. However, any trimming preferred may be applied between the tucks, or the spaces can be left plain if something simpler is wanted. Rat-tail cord applied over a stamped pattern would be smart and effective and lace and embroidered bandings and insertions are almost without number. Either the full sleeves illustrated or plain long ones may be used and if three-quarter length is liked the full sleeves can be finished with narrow bands in place of the deep cuffs. Messaline, net, all materials that are made in lingerie style are as appropriate as are lawns, batistes and the like.

6561. Tucked Blouse. 32 to 40 bust.

The quantity of material required for the medium size is 3⅞ yards 21 or 24, 3¼ yards 32 or 1⅞ yards 44 inches wide, with nine yards of banding.

The pattern may be had in sizes from 34 to 42 inches bust measure and can be obtained at any May Manton agency or will be mailed to any address on receipt of price (10c.). Address same as number 6557.

SOME TRIED RECIPES.

LUNCHEON SALAD.

Make a tomato jelly by cooking a pint of tomatoes with 1 tablespoon chopped onion, a bit of bay leaf, 2 cloves, a peppercorn, 1 teaspoon sugar and a little salt for 20 minutes. Strain and add 1-3 box granulated gelatine which has been soaked in a little cold water and stir until dissolved. When it begins to thicken half fill a border mold which has been dipped in cold water with a potato and cucumber salad mixed with a small quantity of mayonnaise and pour over it the tomato jelly. When firm turn on to a flat dish, fill the center with lettuce leaves and serve with mayonnaise in a separate dish. This is also very good made with chicken and celery salad and if a larger quantity of the tomato jelly is made it may be used alone and the mold may be decorated by arranging slices of a hard-boiled egg or cucumber in the bottom.

SAVORY SANDWICHES.

Mix thoroughly 3 tablespoons grated cheese, ¼ teaspoon each salt, paprika and mustard, 1 teaspoon anchovy paste, 1 teaspoon vinegar and 1 tablespoon chopped pimolas. Add 2 tablespoons butter beaten to a cream and spread on thin slices of white bread.

MR. PEARY HANDED CHECK, GIVES IT TO SOUTH POLAR FUND

NEW YORK—Commander Robert E. Peary, U. S. N., discoverer of the north pole, was greeted by an audience of more than 4000 persons in the Metropolitan opera house Tuesday night and presented with a $10,000 check on behalf of the citizens of New York. This check the commander immediately contributed toward the south pole expedition as planned by the National Geographic Society.

The check was presented by Governor Hughes of New York. Accepting the gift, Commander Peary advanced to the front of the stage and said:

"Here is a check for $10,000. This check will be deposited tomorrow as a joint contribution of the members of this audience, the officers and committee of the Civic Forum and myself toward an American Antarctic expedition for the purpose of exploration and scientific investigation; and to enter the stars and stripes in a splendid, manly international race for the south pole with our British cousins, than whom there are no finer foemen in the world."

Mr. Peary delivered his illustrated lecture, showing his progress to the pole, and Captain Bartlett spoke briefly. When the doors were thrown open at 7:45 o'clock hundreds of persons were waiting to enter, and until past 8:30 o'clock the stream kept up and filled all the seats.

When Governor Hughes led Commander Peary on the stage the audience rose in a body and cheered as the orchestra played "The Star Spangled Banner." In the commander's party, occupying seats of honor, were three of the Roosevelt's crew: Capt. Robert A. Bartlett, master; Dr. J. W. Goodsell, surgeon, and Charles Percy, steward, and Capt. George Bartlett of the relief ship "Eric."

Others on the stage were members of the honorary committee who arranged the testimonial, including Charles B. Alexander, Henry Clews, R. Fulton Cutting, Thomas H. Hubbard, Jacob H. Schiff, Robert J. Collier, Seth Low, Isaac H. Seligman, Paul M. Warburg, Stuyvesant Fish, Adrian H. Joline, Theodore P. Shonts, Hugh J. Chisholm, Elbert H. Gary, John Harsen Rhoades and Egerton L. Winthrop, Jr.

WASHINGTON—The National Geographic Society Tuesday resolved to send an expedition in search of the south pole, provided the necessary funds can be raised. Commander Peary was notified of the action of the board of managers of the geographic society.

Captain Bartlett, who was in command of the steamer Roosevelt on the trip to the north pole, probably will be placed in charge of the expedition into the Antarctic regions. With the exception of Commander Peary, the members of the expedition will be the same as those who returned last year from the north.

The navy department will give its unqualified indorsement to Representative Allen's bill to make Commander Robert E. Peary a rear admiral. This became known Tuesday through an official source when the department received the bill from the House committee on naval affairs with the request that it inform the committee whether it desires to see the measure reported favorably to Congress.

NEW MANHATTAN TERMINAL WILL COST THREE MILLIONS

NEW YORK—The sum of $3,000,000 is soon to be expended for the reconstruction of the Manhattan terminal of Brooklyn bridge, according to plans of Bridge Commissioner Martin. A terminal is to be provided with larger and better approaches. The bridge is now taxed to its fullest capacity during rush hours dispite the opening of several new East river bridges within the past year and the present structure is inadequate to care for the traffic properly.

The commissioner desires to remove the unsightly terminals which now extend over Park Row into city hall park. Within a few weeks he will submit his plans for a new terminal to the board of estimate.

The idea is one that it would be hard to equal from an architectural viewpoint. In appearance it will eclipse the beautiful exterior of the present hall of records in Manhattan. The plans for the terminal have already been approved by the art commission, so no delay will be encountered there when Commissioner Martin submits the plan to the board of estimate.

GASOLINE MADE OF RETORTED GAS

SHINGLEHOUSE, Pa.—A corporation, known as the Bolivar Gasoline Company, on the Holcomb farm near Bolivar, N. Y., has succeeded in making a quantity of high grade gasoline from "dry gas." More than a gallon of gasoline was extracted from every 1000 feet of gas which passed through the retort.

So well satisfied is the company with the result of the experiment that it will build a factory at South Bolivar at a cost of $20,000. The capacity of the plant will be about 400,000 feet of gas daily.

NATIONAL FOREST LANDS CAST OUT

WASHINGTON—More than 4,000,000 acres of land were today thrown out of the national forest by President Taft's approval of the plans laid down by Former Forester Pinchot for the reclassification of lands within the forest domain. This is more than 2 per cent of the total area of the national forests. Some days ago officials of the forest service took up the question with the general land office and their recommendations which follow the principles laid down by Pinchot were accepted by Commissioner Bennett and later approved by both Secretary Wilson and Secretary Ballinger. The agricultural department was today advised that they had received the Presidential O. K.

BANKERS OPPOSE SUPERVISION TAX

The committee on banks and banking at the State House today took up the residue of the recommendations of Bank Commissioner Chapin in his annual report. The only one opposed asks that the institutions under the supervision of the bank commissioner be assessed pro rata for the cost of such supervision. Mr. Chapin said this practise exists in 33 other states of the Union. The banking institutions at present pay a low rate of taxation, and their share of examination expenses is less than that of the individual taxpayer.

EAST MIDDLESEX ASKS NEW COURT

A large number of Middlesex county attorneys appeared before the committee on counties at the State House today in favor of the petition of Samuel K. Hamilton, president of the Middlesex Bar Association, that the county be authorized to borrow money for the completion of a building for the third district court of eastern Middlesex.

WAIST WORKERS CALL STRIKE OFF

NEW YORK—After a four-months' strike the employees of the Triangle Waist Company, who were the first to walk out, being followed by employees of many other concerns, have declared the strike off. A member of the firm states that no agreement has been made with the union, but the members applied for work as individuals and were taken back as far as there were places for them.

MANY HEARINGS ARE POSTPONED

Before the committee on railroads at the State House today the petition of John H. Carter to strike the salary clause from the act providing for inspectors of the railroad commission was put over. The petition of Erland F. Fish and others for the incorporation of the Nantucket Railroad Company was postponed one week.

Representative Charles F. McCarthy of Marlboro appeared for his own petition that the railroad commissioners shall be elected annually by the people.

No one appeared on the petition of William B. Willcutt to provide a fine for the Union Freight Railroad Company for violations of the traffic regulations in the use of Boston streets, or on the petition of Patrick Bradley to forbid the use of Boston streets by that railroad.

ASKS REDUCTION IN THE ASSESSORS

The Hon. John A. Sullivan of the Boston finance board at a hearing today before the committee on metropolitan affairs at the State House explained the action of the commission's report which recommends the repeal of the act of 1894 which permits the appointments of assistant assessors. He said that it had been figured that the city of Boston could do without at least 15 assistant assessors, at a saving of $27,500 a year.

He was of the opinion that the work of these assessors in looking after poll taxes and verifying the listing of the police could be materially consolidated, at a great saving to the city. There are now 46 assessors of all grades in Boston, he said, and maintained that so many are not needed.

DANIEL A. SHEA PASSES BAR TEST

Daniel A. Shea of 86 Humboldt avenue, Roxbury, clerk and stenographer in the local United States district attorney's office, today received the welcome news that he had passed the Boston bar examination. There were about 250 candidates and Mr. Shea was one of the highest on the list. Today he was kept busy receiving congratulations from United States District Attorney Asa P. French, the assistant district attorneys, the judges of the United States courts and other friends.

HYDE PARK HOUSE BURNS.

HYDE PARK, Mass.—Fire this forenoon caused damage at the house at 13 Dana avenue, owned by George F. Hull amounting to about $2000. Two alarms were sounded.

GOVERNOR NAMES LIST OF OFFICIALS

Governor Draper this afternoon sent to the executive council the following appointments: Bart Bossidy of Lee to be justice of the Lee police court, vice Patricius H. Casey, resigned; George E. Prest of Fall River to be a trustee of the Bradford-Durfee textile school; Col. William D. Sohier of Beverly to be a member of the highway commission; John S. Hitchcock of Northampton to be a state inspector of health, vice Harney T. Shaw, resigned; Cheney Church Jones of Boston to be a special district police officer on recommendation of the Society for the Prevention of Crelty to Children; David T. Kimball and Charles P. Greenough of Boston, Henry S. Hunnewell of Wellesley and Henry S. Howe of Brookline to be trustees of the Massachusetts General Hospital, and William D. Richardson, Paul Revere Frothingham and Armetto P. Rogers of Boston and Norwood P. Hallowell of Medford to be trustees of the Perkins institution.

URGE MONUMENT AT VALLEY FORGE

The committee of military affairs gave a hearing today at the State House on a resolve providing an appropriation of $10,000 for the erection at Valley Forge, Pa., of a monument to the men of Massachusetts who served there. Alphonso S. Harris, vice-president of the Sons of the American Revolution, and Herbert W. Kimball spoke in favor of the bill.

CHARGES TO OPEN STREETS OPPOSED

Everett W. Burdett, Arthur E. Ballantyne and Albert E. Pillsbury were heard at the State House today by the committee on metropolitan affairs in opposition to that portion of the recommendations in the report of the Boston finance commission which requires bonding of public service corporations which have to open the streets and charging for such openings.

FOREST RANGER FACTS WANTED

WASHINGTON—A resolution introduced by Senator Heyburn in the Senate today calling on Secretary Wilson for detailed information regarding the education of forest rangers was adopted without debate. It requests a list of the rangers so educated, the expense attached, the colleges attended and all data connected with the subject.

TAXATION PROJECT LIKED BY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MEN

Constitutional Change Is Favored at Special Meeting —Also Adopt Other Committee Reports.

EFFECT ON REALTY

The Boston Chamber of Commerce at its special meeting late Tuesday declared in favor of the proposed change in the constitution of the state so as to permit the classification of property for the purposes of taxation. The taxation committee's report favoring the proposed legislation was accepted after a lively debate participated in by Moorfield Storey, John C. Cobb, chairman of the committee; ex-Governor Guild, ex-Mayor Matthews, Edward A. Filene, Leslie C. Wead, Laurence Minot and others.

The other reports were adopted.

The opposition on the tax measure developed principally through Moorfield Storey and Nathan Matthews, Jr. Mr. Storey said that the proposed change would lead to class issues, place too great a burden on real estate and tend to unequal taxation. Mr. Matthews said that the proposed change was practically a movement to secure double taxation, taxing property and the income from it.

Speaking in favor of the change, Mr. Filene contended that it would be only asking Massachusetts to adopt a system that was already in vogue in 14 other states, and which had proved successful wherever tried.

Laurence Minot said that he was interested as trustee in estates in which his clients had invested millions of dollars. He did not believe there was any ground for the fears that had been expressed as to the danger of the change. He was in favor of the change because he thought it would improve industrial conditions.

George F. Willett was also in favor of it. He is connected with a concern which has factories in four states. Massachusetts taxed machinery more heavily than did any of the other three.

By a vote of 70 to 39 Mr. Storey's substitute was rejected, and then the report of the committee was adopted.

SCHOOL TO TEACH PACKING APPLES

SPOKANE, Wash.—Homer J. Shinn, one of the big apple dealers of Spokane, and Ben Rice, secretary of the national apple show, are advocating a packing school for Spokane county. The Commercial Club of Walla Walla, Wash., with the cooperation of Walla Walla valley growers, has instituted a free packing school for young men, and it is believed that a similar institution here would be of great benefit. Expert packers make from $3.50 to $5.50 a day and board.

"The market value of apples depends largely on the packing," said Mr. Rice. "To the proficiency of our packers is due to no small degree the supremacy of the product of this section of Washington in the markets of the country."

EVERETT BOARD AT BIG BANQUET

Every similar gathering in the history of Everett, both in regard to size and the representative men assembled, was surpassed by the third annual banquet of the Everett board of trade which was held Tuesday evening in Whittier hall. There were nearly 350 men present.

Among the speakers were President Eugene J. Blount, Wilbur J. Rockwood, Lieutenant-Governor Frothingham, Ralph Bauer, Mayor Bruce, Senator Frank P. Bennett, Jr., and Melville C. Freeman.

RAILWAY PLANS GREATER WORK

WASHINGTON—President Finley has announced that the Southern Railway will soon, through its land and industrial department, again enlarge the publicity and promotion work which it has carried on for the development of the country reached by its lines.

It was necessary to curtail this work somewhat following the business depression of 1907, on account of both general and special conditions.

MR. CURTIS SEEKS MONEY GRANT.

WASHINGTON—Collector Curtis of Boston will appear today before the House claims committee in support of a bill carrying $3000 to reimburse him for a sum lost from the public moneys when he was sub-treasurer.

HOME FURNISHERS DINNER PROVES A WORTHY SUCCESS

ALONZO E. YONT.
Elected to be secretary of the Home Furnishers Association of Massachusetts.

COL. HENRY L. KINCAIDE.
Quincy man, president of the Home Furnishers Association of Massachusetts.

The fourth annual meeting and dinner of the Home Furnishers Association of Massachusetts was held at the Revere House Tuesday evening with nearly 250 men and one woman present. The woman was Mrs. G. H. Largworthy, widow of a furniture dealer and trade journal editor, who came from New York to be present.

M. J. Sullivan of Lawrence, the toastmaster, introduced the speakers, among whom were the Hon. Allen T. Treadway, president of the state Senate, the Hon. Guy A. Ham and the Hon. William A. Morse.

Both Mr. Treadway and Mr. Ham asserted that lobbyists have no power at the state house to influence legislation and that no legislators are under any undue influence of any lobbyists. Mr. Treadway declared that he had never seen more representative men than the members of the present Senate and that the recent criticisms of the lobby are not worthy the credence of intelligent people.

Mr. Ham said that the legislators are a credit to Massachusetts as they would be to any other state, and that the agitation against the lobby is injurious, inasmuch as it tends to prevent legislators listening to some of the brightest men in the legal profession on legislative questions. Such lawyers will not appear to urge the merits of petitioners' claims, he said, for fear that their position may be misunderstood.

At the business meeting which preceded the dinner these officers were elected: President, Henry L. Kincaide of Boston; vice-presidents, Henry B. Schofield of Boston, Richard E. Warner of Taunton, LeBaron Atherton of Brockton, M. J. Sullivan of Lawrence, and J. M. Parker of New Bedford; treasurer, F. T. A. McLeod of Boston; secretary, Alonzo E. Yont of Boston; auditors, M. A. Wood of Boston, C. E. Osgood of Boston, and Jackson Caldwell of Somerville.

The executive council includes Jackson Caldwell, Charles E. Osgood, George L. Hersey, H. S. Martin, Andrew J. Morse, Frank Ferdinand, D. B. H. Power, J. H. Clarkson B. A. Atkinson C. C. Buckley, Charles A. Smith, C. L. Phillips, F. P. Luce, George T. Horan, Louis Lambert, W. H. Godfrey, J. L. Lougee, W. H. Williams, R. S. Reed, A. B. Underwood, Ira L. CANADIAN POWER CASE YET MOOTED

Conservation Commission Reserves Decision on the St. Lawrence River Project to Dam Rapids.

TORONTO, Ont.—The Canadian conservation commission late Tuesday handed to the international waterways commission its reserved decision on the work of the St. Lawrence River Power Company, which proposes to dam the Long Sault Rapids on the St. Lawrence for power development.

Representatives of all Montreal shipping interests and of navigation companies indorsed the commission's contentions that the prospect, if carried out, would deprive the Canadian government of a free hand in deepening the river channel for navigation and would compel navigation to follow the South Sault channel, an inferior route. They pointed out that there was no market on the Canadian side for this power at present.

The company's application was backed by deputations from Brockville, Prescott and neighboring towns, these men asserting that the project meant cheap lighting and power for the municipalities within a reasonable radius of the dams.

USES TELEPHONE WHILE IN FLIGHT

FRESNO, Cal.—A remarkable test of the efficiency of two modern inventions was given Tuesday, when J. Morgan, the operator of the Curtiss biplane in the aviation contests here, kept in communication by wireless telephone while several hundred feet in the air.

The Wright brothers had intended to prove the feasibility of the communication next week in government tests, but may call off the affair now that Mr. Curtiss has anticipated them.

ANDOVER STARTS BUILDINGS SOON

The trustees of the Andover Theological Seminary expect that the cornerstone of the first of its new buildings at Cambridge may be laid at commencement this year. At the last semi-annual meeting of the trustees the plans for "Andover Hall," really a group of connected buildings, were adopted.

The buildings will be of stone with limestone trimmings and work will be commenced as soon as estimates can be received and the contract let. It is expected to have the structures ready for occupancy by spring next year. The site is on the Norton estate, ebtween Francis street and Divinity place, close to the Harvard divinity school.

PACIFIC CRUISERS LEAVE HONOLULU

HONOLULU—The flagship California, with Rear Admiral Giles B. Harber's pennant flying, sailed from here Tuesday for the Pacific coast with seven other cruisers comprising the Pacific fleet. The Tennessee, formerly the flagship of Admiral Sebree, and the Washington go direct to Bremerton navy yard to be overhauled.

The other cruisers, the California, South Dakota, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Colorado and Maryland, will go direct to San Francisco, arriving next Tuesday. After a few days of shore leave the fleet will sail for Magdalena bay for target practise.

CANNERS DEMAND PROPER LABELING

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—American canners in convention at the Hotel Rudolf here are bitter in their attacks on those canners who use benzoate of soda or other chemicals in packing fruits and vegetables. They are for real pure food laws. They want the government to make a rigid inspection of all canneries and to enforce proper labeling laws.

RAILROAD TO AN OASIS.

CONSTANTINOPLE—A narrow gauge railway is to be constructed to the Harilah district, about 250 kilometers north of Bagdad. The spot is an oasis situated in the center of a vast desolate plain which is traversed by four arms of the Euphrates.

EDUCATION BOARD WILL HOLD TESTS

The Massachusetts board of education will give a public examination on Friday, Feb. 18, at 9:30 a. m. in room 15 of the State House to those who desire to obtain the certificate of approval of the board for the position as superintendent of schools.

Applicants must have had two years' experience and must present to the board testimonials of character and scholarship in order to be permitted to take the examination. Credit is given for the results of the examination, for professional study and for experience in teaching.

NEW YORK CUTS DOWN CIVIC LIST

NEW YORK—In three municipal departments Tuesday 261 more employees were discharged.

In the tenement house department 35 clerks were dropped and in the dock department 145 men were dismissed. Borough President Miller of the Bronx dropped 81 employees. The great majority of the dismissed men were laborers.

Mayor Gaynor took occasion again to warn a city board that he expected it to do its part in running the city government on a square basis.

A HISTORIC FORT WILL BE REBUILT

GULER, Wash.—The logs that once comprised the blockhouse in use during the late '50s, when the Yakima Indians were on the warpath, have been removed from their former location on Spring Creek, this county, and now occupy a vacant lot in Goldendale.

It is the intention of the history-loving people of Goldendale to rebuild the old fort, restoring it to its former state, and to use it as a museum for the collection of Indian relics and other things pertaining to the early history of Klickitat county.

Literary Influences of the French Revolution

(See Faguet's Literary History of France.)

I.

Montesquieu, Voltaire, Rousseau and Buffon are the great men of the eighteenth century, and their period produced the French revolution, although Faguet sees that economic causes are a hundred times more important than the influence of ideas in all revolutions.

A whole literature, however, was created by the reaction against the government of Louis XIV. Saint Pierre, Montesquieu and the Duke de St. Simon had one thing in common—horror of the King's rule. Montesquieu is "one of the princes in the world of intellect." His great book is "L'Esprit des Lois," which was a complete system of sociology. In it he sought to establish what the natural and normal constitution of a people ought to be. Its style is "sober, robust, haughty."

Marivaux stands as the only man after Moliere who showed any originality in comedy. A romanticist here, he was a realist in novel writing. Voltaire's early tragedies and his comedies had their place in the dramatic work of this period. La Motte and Destouches are other workers here. Abbe Prevost stands among the novelists who preceded Rousseau. He influenced his time by striving to introduce English literature into France.

Voltaire and Diderot are the great names in the philosophic school. Voltaire early declared himself an advocate of free thought such as he had seen practised in England. Then in his philosophical tales, "Zadig" and "Candide," he began to express in his inimitable way his contempt for the world and its inhabitants as he saw them. He had great popularity for his ardor and vigor and apparently inexhaustable resources, but he may not be ranked high as a philosopher or politician, for none of his ideas are very deep, says Faguet. Diderot summed up the philosophy, art, history, literature and legislation of the century in the round of his profuse writings. In his salons he really originated art criticism. He made criticism literary—that is, explained the subject and what feelings it gave him rather than its composition. The "Encyclopaedia" is a great work that bears his name. Condillac was another philosopher of this time, but from the middle of the eighteenth century two men dominated the public mind, Voltaire and Rousseau.

Jean Jacques Rousseau, a Genevan, raised an intellectual whirlwind when he began at the age of 40 to write. He sought to prove that intellectual culture is detrimental to humanity. Life is to be lived, not studied about in books. "Emile" is his great pedagogical novel, as fanciful as "Telemaque," but brilliant, strange, entertaining, full of new and interesting ideas. Then his "Letters" and "Confessions" set the seal "to a glory that is one of the greatest, most vital, most growing, known in the history of all literatures," according to Faguet's estimate. Rousseau had an attractive and powerful mentality. He proved to the world that it was absurd, and then fascinated it with theories, dreams and phrases that had the ring of music. He was a writer and musician, philosopher and poet. In literature alone Rousseau "amounts to a revolution." "He reinstated feeling on a throne for a half century held by reason only." Literature became an outpouring of the heart. Poetry and lyric charm found their way even into prose. Voltaire had introduced English ideas, but more than any other it was Rousseau who accustomed the French to feel somewhat in the way of the Germans and English.

One great thing Rousseau did for his time was to waken the feeling for nature, in which he was so rich. Nature became the fashion. Bernardin de St. Pierre was Rousseau's greatest disciple, the first forerunner of Pierre Loti, sailor and traveler.

When Augustus Thomas Was a Reporter

Augustus Thomas was dilating on his life as a newspaper man the other day.

He was exposed to his first experience as a journalist in St. Louis, and he entered upon his duties with considerable ambition, and above all a high literary spirit. His first contribution was well written, allusive, stylish, epigrammatic, but in a sense recondite. His editor, a kindly and genial man, read the copy before he sent it up to the composing room.

Then he called Augustus Thomas over to him. "Mr. Thomas," said he, "this article is well written—very well written. I understand it perfectly. But I am afraid that the majority of our readers, not being classically educated, will be unable to do so. Nor can the paper at present afford to send out with each copy a man who will demonstrate your meaning to each reader."

"Therefore, I must ask you to simplify."—New York Morning Telegraph.

Genuine Folk-Song

A correspondent of the New York Sun writes: An editorial article in today's Sun asserts that the negro has no folk-song. I think you are mistaken. The songs are rapidly being forgotten, but the negroes did have them.

I well remember how in my childhood the negroes on my father's place sang in the evenings, and the songs were distinctly negro in origin, with a swing and rhythm that no white composer has ever successfully imitated. Among them I still recall:

"Ah haid a lover, he sail o'h de ocean," "Go long, auntie, Ah know you befoh me," "Who kick Sam, woppy doodle, woppy doodle," "De herring bone, de herring bone," "Joshua fot de battle ob de Jericho," and a number of others.

These songs have never been published, to my knowledge. I have always intended to write out the melodies and words and submit them to a publishing house, but thus far have failed to do so. They are genuine negro songs; the words are negro and the melodies are negro.

American College Receives Recognition

The Bulletin of the International Bureau of American Republics says: A college conducted in English, and known as "The American Institute," established at La Paz, Bolivia, has proved so thorough and efficient and has given such great satisfaction in the curriculum prescribed, that the government has decreed that its certificates, or diplomas, shall admit the persons to whom issued to entrance in the universities of the republic without the necessity of an examination.

A German Art Center

(Snapshot by Anthony Wayne Strauss, Cambridge, Mass.)

HALL OF FAME, MUNICH, BAVARIA.

Munich is described as one of the most progressive of German cities. It has become one of the chief art centers, largely it is said through the efforts of King Louis I. of Bavaria, who encouraged all the arts in all possible ways. There are two great galleries of paintings, of old works and modern, besides smaller collections. The cut here shows the hall of fame (Ruhmeshalle), where statues of the famous men of Bavaria have place. Among them are Jean Paul Richter, Francis von Sickingen, Schelling, Klenze, Cornelius (musician, whose work was chiefly at Munich) and the sculptor Schwanthaler, who designed the colossal statue of Bavaria which stands in front of the hall of fame. It is 62 feet tall and faces out over the city's playgrounds or park.

"By Any Other Name"

Of a certain humble vegetable condemned unheard in a recent writing in these columns the following story is contributed, to hint at the plant's serviceableness. A gentleman had a well-brought-up garden plot, with regulation roses and carnations and mignonette and similar exotics. But the plot lacked a border. The gentleman was esthetic, a very Bunthorne. He even loved a cabbage rose. He resolved upon a step unbeknown to wife or admiring neighbors, for whom his home nook was a cynosure.

Presently a feathery growth of green was seen all about the garden plot. It flourished, and the neighbors commented on its beauty. Questioned at last the gardener referred loftily if indefinitely to the "Persian palms" of book lore, and the neighbor, unwilling to admit his lack of familiarity with the particular walks of literature haunted by the species, withdrew awestruck. The other neighbors were bidden to the spot to see the delicate new plant, so decorative, yet in itself so exquisitely fine and of such a charming color. Here the esthete found his honesty overcoming his sense of humor. Bending to one of the flourishing tufts he held it suddenly aloft. The long, high-colored tuber that had lurked under the ground was revealed. "Carrots!" shouted the onlookers—and then there was hot work defending the pretty border from an onslaught of victimized neophytes in horticulture.

A Debt of Honor

We have lost many of the finer and gentler courtesies of life, much that used to make family life sweet and gracious. There is too much haste in everything, and the smallest child feels it in the very air. There are some domestic virtues that require time, that cannot grow in an atmosphere of hurry and drive. Chief among them is gratitude, the recognition of what is being done for one by friends and family at every minute of our existence. "Why did you not say thank you'?" asks a mother reproachfully, and the child replies, as if the excuse were one whose admission were sure, "I was in a great hurry and did not take time!" Then, certainly, something should be cut out from the child's occupations and time be given him to pay his debts. For gratitude is a debt of honor.—The American Baby.

Japanese View of American Schools

When the school divorces itself from the mother, or when the mother ceases to work with the school, a dark day dawns for the child. Two complaints have been heard of late years in regard to education. Mothers have been protesting that lessons should not be brought home to be learned. "What are schools for?" they have impatiently asked. Teachers have declared, for their part, that they cannot take the place of the mothers and teach manners and morals, as well as reading and arithmetic.

Both complaints are ill-founded. The mother and the teacher are partners, not competitors, in the great enterprise of helping boys and girls to become men and women. Whatever service can be rendered by one to the other should be done not grudgingly, but eagerly—for the good of the whole business is the advantage of each of the partners.

"You teach too much arithmetic," said a Japanese visitor to an American school. "In Japan we teach our children manners, then we teach them morals; after that we teach them arithmetic, for arithmetic without manners and morals makes men and women sordid."—Exchange.

Kaiserly Calling

"There is no firmer adherent to the old new year's day calling fashion in Berlin than the Emperor, and so long as he makes his calls the custom will remain popular," says a letter from that city. "On last new year's day, shortly after noon and while the show carriages were arriving in great numbers at the Schloss, bearing dignitaries whose cards were delivered for the Emperor, William was making calls on ambassadors, ministers and friends. Wherever his automobile halted a Leibjager delivered a card, ample in size, on which was engraved in large, distinct letters: 'Wilhelm, Deutscher Kaiser, Koenig von Preussen.' The Emperor has copies of all picture postcards which bear his portrait, and many of these were sent by him to friends whose pictures were also on the card. These were forwarded under cover, and invariably with an autographic reference to the occasion."—N. Y. Tribune.

The Meaning of Democracy

Ignorance isn't safe any longer. We must know what we are about. Things happen quicker now. There are so many things to be done that when we want a man to do them we don't find out who his grandfather was. We don't care. We simply want a man who can carry a message to Garcia or whatever it is we want done—a man who can do it. That's what democracy means—giving every man a square deal and a chance to do that which he can do best.—David Starr Jordan.

Suspension Bridge Built by Indians

WHEN the engineering party who were locating the line of the new Canadian transcontinental railway reached the Skeena river they were delighted to find a steel cable suspension bridge across the stream, which has provided the means of transporting supplies that would otherwise have taken considerable time and money to prepare.

This bridge has been in service for 30 years and has a rather curious history, having been constructed by native Indians out of telegraph cable. In 1864 a company of Americans projected a telegraph line from America to Europe by way of Bering sea, the line to go through British Columbia to the Yukon. The line had been constructed as far as Quesnel, and from there to the Naas river, when the news of the successful laying of the Atlantic cable put a stop to the work, and it was never continued. The camp broke up and left behind their stores and materials, which fell into the hands of the Indians, together with the hundreds of miles of wire that had been strung north of Quesnel.

After some years it occurred to the Indians to utilize this immense quantity of wire for bridges, and, although without experience or training in bridge construction, they contrived to build two or three bridges that have stood the test of time and usage for some 30 years. The bridge at Ahwilligate, over a gorge in the Bulkley valley, is said to be a wonderful piece of bridge construction to be undertaken by Indians with such crude materials and facilities. It is described as "200 feet above a roaring torrent; the span is 150 feet in the clear; the two shore timbers are each 63 foot trusses supported by inclined struts from below and acting as cantilevers, which are joined by a connecting truss 24 feet long, and the whole being supplemented by a double system of suspension cables made of telegraph wire, anchored at either bank. The timbers are all round poles tied together with telegraph wire." The trail, cut through the then wilderness of British Columbia by the telegraph company still remains the main highway to the northern interior of the province, and is generally known as "the old telegraph trail."

A Commentary on Modern Civilization

Sermons, if not in stones, in the swift scratches of the engraving acid on newspaper plates are preached graphically everywhere. "Life," whose doses of delightful satire harm nobody and often help, has this week an original full page lesson in three panel pictures. First comes a deep primeval forest with fern-edged flowing stream. Next is a desolate stretch of stump land, where the edge of the dry river channel is graced by a ramshackle building labeled "pulp mill." The third shows snatches of headlines and news items or theater advertisements from journals of an invariably saffron hue. The legend reads under each respectively, "Is it wise to change this" "Into this" "To make this?"

The Poem

What's a poem? Something more
Than the royal fact of prose;
Prose, though masterful its store,
Nothing half so subtile knows;
'Tis the attar of the rose—
'Tis the lute's sweet lore.

'Tis a thought of truth begot,
Floating in serenest air,
Dulcet as the Angelot—
Lifting aspiration where
Earthly greed and earthful care
Are awhile forgot. . . .

'Tis the Logos in the breast
Love-compelling them, who see,
To expression which is rest—
Rest, in uttered harmony;
This, the poem—verily—
God-Thought manifest!

THE OPEN DOOR

A FORMERLY respectable member of the community who had long been a charge upon his wife's patience and industry said to the present writer the other day that his efforts to reform had always been hindered by the fourth, fifth and sixth verses of the sixth chapter of Hebrews. This person's adversary was a depraved appetite. While he could quote Scripture by the chapter, he continually accepted and indulged the belief of pleasure in the merchandise and associations of bar-rooms. Such a belief must in time expire or change, even according to its own nature; but in order to break the law of sin and bring the case immediately under the law of God, to borrow terms used by Paul in his letter to the Romans, the cause of the appetite must be abolished and be replaced by a normal and healthy desire for better things than the false pleasures sought in strong drink, indolence and bad company.

It seems, however, that this particular victim of wrong desire was hindered by the letter of certain Scripture; and possibly his misunderstanding is shared by others. Let us therefore examine the verses in question. They read as follows: "For it is impossible for those who were once enlightened, and have tasted of the heavenly gift, and were made partakers of the Holy Ghost, and have tasted the good word of God, and the powers of the world to come, if they shall fall away, to renew them again into repentance; seeing they crucify to themselves the son of God afresh, and put him to an open shame."

These words, it is to be observed, admit of two constructions. On the one hand, the writer may, conceivably, have intended to declare the existence of a spiritual law, a law of divine Love, to the effect that a certain class of sinners cannot be brought to repentance. On the other hand, the words in question may have been used as practical advice to the effect that in the case stated it is difficult and even impracticable for one person to bring another to repentance. The name of the author of the epistle is not known. The style of the epistle is unlike Paul; and it has with some show of probability been attributed to Barnabas and to Appollos. But this much is clear: that the writer was an intelligent follower of Jesus the Christ. The author was a disciple of him who said: "I came not to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance"; and who also gave this advice to his immediate disciples concerning a certain class of sinners, "Let them alone: they be blind leaders of the blind." He spent no time attempting to evangelize the Pharisees; yet he preached the gospel of universal salvation. This being true, it is not probable that the writer to the Hebrews intended to assert any law to the contrary.

That there is no law of God against the repentance or salvation of any one is clearly set forth in the Master's parable of the lost sheep. As related in the fifteenth chapter of Luke, the lesson of this parable is summed up in these words "I say unto you, that likewise joy shall be in heaven over one sinner that repenteth, more than over ninety and nine just persons, which need no repentance." In the eighteenth chapter of Matthew the same conclusion is stated even more plainly: "Even so it is not the will of your father which is in heaven that one of these little ones should perish." Possibly the law and the gospel on this point is most clearly stated in this beatitude "Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled." In these words is declared the divine law that whoever hungers and thirsts for a better life shall have it. There is no qualification; the rule is absolute.

And how shall weak and sinful humanity gain the desire for better things? "Here Christian Science is the sovereign panacea, giving strength to the weakness of mortal mind,—strength from the immortal and omnipotent Mind,—and lifting humanity above itself into purer desires, even into spiritual power and good-will to men." ("Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, p. 407).

Children's Department

Little Italian Princes and the Flowers

The Queen of Italy is said to have a most devoted and motherly eye upon the rearing of her beautiful children. They are in the open air all day long, even in winter. Then a roofed-over structure is provided for them, with the sides open. The children run barefoot at the seashore and romp freely in the gardens at the Quirinal in Rome. They love the things of nature, birds and flowers.

One day a little cousin visited them in the country who is a rather impetuous and hasty lad. He begged the King for the loan of a riding whip. Then he rushed out of the house toward a big field of daisies and buttercups and began slashing at the flowers right and left. The Queen says her children were at first benumbed with astonishment. Then they went running to her to beg her to stop Carlos and take away the whip.

One day she was sitting in her study when little Umberto came in. After a moment he noticed a flower that had fallen from a vase on to the floor.

He said, "Little mother, do let me stand up on the divan a moment. See, the mamma flower has lost its child. I want to put it back." With my permission he accomplished the feat, then he said, "That baby flower need no longer cry. It is happy now with its mamma."

Club Life at Harvard

Other colleges have their campus, but Harvard merely has a yard. So other colleges have fraternities, but Harvard merely has clubs, writes the Boston Globe. Within these clubhouses, unlike at the fraternities' homes, there are no chambers for the members. All of them have their own rooms elsewhere.

But before going any further, let it be understood that these clubs are not only for sons of the rich. Many a poor boy, with no money and no social position—whatever that is—back of him, and nothing but an easy manner, a pleasant smile, and a heart in the right place, has become a member of one of these clubs. Furthermore, if such a student cannot afford to pay the initiation fee or the annual dues, he is admitted to any of the clubs as a regular member just the same, and is excused from contributing anything to defray the club's many expenses. A student's means has not everything to do with his becoming a member of the best clubs at Harvard.

A Royal Student

According to an old almanac these are some estimates of the Bible given by the Prince of Granada, heir to the Spanish throne, who spent 33 years in prison at Madrid. During this time he wrote as follows in the Bible, among other notes, showing careful study:

The 26th chapter of Acts is the finest chapter to read. The most beautiful is the 23d Psalm; the four most inspiring promises are John xv. 2; John xiv. 37; Matthew xi. 28; Psalms xxxvii. 4. The first verse of Isaiah lx. is the one for the new convert. All who flatter themselves with vain boastings of their perfectness should read Matthew vi.

I cannot see, my God, a reason why
From morn to night I go not gladsome, free;
For, if Thou art what my soul thinketh Thee,
There is no burden but should lightly lie,
No duty but a joy at heart must be;
Love's perfect will can be nor sore nor small,
For God is light—in Him no darkness is at all.

Dr. Wiley Encourages New England

DR. HARVEY W. WILEY, chief of the bureau of chemistry at Washington and well-known authority on foods, gave New Englanders great encouragement as to their farming future in an address before the Massachusetts Agricultural College alumni on Tuesday evening. He advised his hearers and other people to invest their money in abandoned New England farms, which he predicted are steadily to rise in value. This, he claimed, will be the result of improved methods in farming, which will make the hill pastures blossom like the rose. He cited the examples of Maryland and Virginia, where, under up-to-date systems of agriculture, farms that had been abandoned have advanced in price from $3 to $100 per acre. Dr. Wiley said that here in New England windmills are going to provide nitrate of potash and nitrate of lime from the atmosphere for fertilizers, and the native granite is to be ground up to provide potash, enabling farmers to produce double the crops per acre that are now raised.

Dr. Wiley is not alone in assuring New England that its land prospect is promising. Secretary Ellsworth of the Massachusetts board of agriculture declares that its possibilities are now just beginning to appeal to the people. Land in the East he considers more reasonable than anywhere else in the country. He states that he has received letters from the Pacific coast from people who are looking for an opportunity to sell their farms there and buy farms in New England. Mr. Ellsworth expects to see the corn crop more than doubled in the next year, and says there never has been a time when the immediate future was so bright for intelligent agriculture in New England as it is now.

The East is being aroused to its opportunities. According to the census figures of 1905 there are still 1,198,720 acres of uncultivated agricultural land in Massachusetts. There is no need to go West to find farming openings. They are right here at our doors. In the past ten years there has been a substantial increase in farm products in this state. The fruit industry has made a large gain, and last year there developed such an enormous demand for fruit trees that the nurseries were unable to supply it.

"Back to the farm!" is the cry of the hour. Noteworthy efforts are being put forth in the line of agricultural education. Herein lies one great hope of progress. Dr. Wiley says of England, Germany and France that each produces twice as much wheat per acre as does the United States. But he and other experts are coming to the aid of the agriculturists, their advice is being welcomed, and when it is acted upon there will be a change in conditions greatly for the better. New England is grateful to the Washington visitor for his counsel and hopeful words.

Pinchot Offers Advice

THE public is to have the benefit of Mr. Pinchot's knowledge of and experience in conservation matters, and probably his advice will be given more promptly and more fully than it would were he a government official. There are nine conservation bills pending in Congress. Mr. Pinchot has carefully looked them over to determine their respective values, and as president of the National Conservation Association he issues a circular letter to its members on the attitude they may best assume toward the measures. Two bills he finds are good and need but slight amendment. He advises unqualified support of the bill on withdrawal of public lands as reported by Senator Nelson. The bill for the survey of railroad land grants should be enacted after it has been amended so as to take cognizance of the arrangement with the forest service for the return of railroad lands within the national forests to the United States in exchange for the right to cut in one body an amount of timber equal to that on the lands returned.

Mr. Pinchot discovers conclusive defects in the waterpower bill, whether seen from the point of view of conservation or from that of the waterpower companies. The immediate effect of the passage of this bill would doubtless be to stop the development of waterpower on government land. The restrictions on rates charged to the public would be easy to evade. The provisions against monopoly are less effective than those now in force under the secretary of agriculture. Waterpower sites, says Mr. Pinchot, should be protected from private appropriation under the land laws and it should be made possible to issue to the companies permits good for, and definitely terminating at the end of, fifty years. The government should be left as free as the lessee to bargain for a renewal of the permit or to refuse it. The reclamation bill Mr. Pinchot pronounces defective in that it opens reclaimed lands to absentee landlords and to speculators.

Few of the congressmen before whom these measures are presented are able to weigh their respective merits as justly as can the former forester, and as an impartial judge he gives decisions of great value. It is to be hoped that they will be accepted at their full worth.

The Comet's Visit

INTEREST in Halley's comet increases as the comet draws nearer to us. Comet A, which was recently in view, may be said to have been a sort of advance courier of the more spectacular visitor that makes a regular appearance every seventy-five years. Halley's comet will begin to be visible to the naked eye about April 1 and may be seen in the morning just before sunrise. It will pass between the earth and the sun at two o'clock on the morning of May 19 and after that it may be seen in the evening sky following sunset. The appearance of the heavenly visitor will be most beautiful during the last ten days of the month of May. It will be nearest to us on the eighteenth, the distance then being about 6,000,000 miles, but it will not appear so brilliant as later, for it will be between the spectator and the sun. The earth will be swept by the tail of the comet, which is many millions of miles in length. This event Camille Flammarion says "will be especially interesting to astronomers, but probably will not be noticed by ordinary mortals unless on account of certain electric or magnetic phenomena." Prof. Edwin B. Frost, director of the Yerkes observatory, thinks there may be at that time a rather pretty display of luminous vapors in our atmosphere.

An interesting spectacle will be presented on May 1, when the comet is near Venus. The planet and the comet will be practically the same distance from the earth and their relative sizes may be noted. The comet's bulk exceeds that of Venus about a million times, but its mass is gaseous and not solid. The planets will not be disturbed by the attraction of the comet, but they are likely to affect the lighter body a good deal.

Of Halley (1656-1742), who calculated the orbit of this comet, it is stated that when yet a schoolboy he detected the variation of the compass, and while at Oxford he devised an improved method of computing planetary orbits. He searched all records touching on the appearance and aspects of comets, and on the coming of the comet of 1682 he observed its position with great care and computed the elements of its orbit. He found it moving in a plane little inclined to the ecliptic, but in an ellipse of very great elongation. His calculations indicated that it receded from the sun to the enormous distance of 3,400,000,000 miles and warranted the assertion that it would return in seventy-five years, which proved true. Three times since Halley's day has the comet made its round. All the world's big telescopes are now turned toward it, and soon all human eyes will have an opportunity to witness its flight.

Postal Savings Bank Opposition

IT IS rather a strange circumstance that Democratic opposition to the postal savings bank bill should have arisen in the Senate at a time when excuses for opposing the measure, if they only promised to be convincing and effective, would be welcomed by gentlemen on the Republican side of the House. For it should not be forgotten that while the Republican majority in Congress is now arrayed in behalf of a postal savings bank system, this is due more to the persistence and determination of the President to keep his party's platform pledges than to any very strong desire on the part of the Republicans in Congress to be responsible for the innovation.

In speaking against the bill, and in enlisting his brother Democrats in opposition, Senator Rayner of Maryland has brought relief to the hesitating Republicans. The matter has now been made a partizan issue, and in a partizan contest they can, and with good grace, abandon their personal predilections and prejudices. It is easy to see, therefore, that the Democratic opposition will serve to solidify the Republican majority, and, practically, to insure the passage of the bill.

This change in the aspect of things is doubly fortuitous from the point of view of the friends of postal savings banks, because there have been lately unmistakable signs of a renewal of opposition to the pending bill in the Republican ranks.

Corporation Legislation and Wall Street

IN CONNECTION with the recent sharp declines in the stock market, it is mentioned as a remarkable fact that the usual rumors accounting for the slump were absent from Wall street. For instance, on Monday there were no reports of impending failures such as accompanied the heavy decline of a week previously. Yet the selling pressure was strong throughout the day, and while there was a rally in the closing hour, there was a renewal of selling orders in the last few minutes, and a further decline. Yesterday the market opened weak and it lacked steadiness throughout the day. Of course, in the absence of other explanations, it was natural that the unsettled conditions should be attributed to the introduction of the President's corporation bill. It is held in one quarter, however, that this could hardly have been accountable for the break, for the reason that the measure had been expected for some time, and was fully discounted.

But the fact remains that there has been uncertainty everywhere as to what the President would do in this connection, and it is quite probable that the disturbance of the market is the result of the continuance of this uncertainty, which has not been removed by the announcement that the corporation bill would not be pressed. The point emphasized by this second financial flurry within a fortnight is that while confidence is felt in the disposition of the President to avoid radical legislation during his term, this confidence does not extend to Congress, especially at a time when control of the lower house in the immediate future is in question, and when the "interests" are liable to baiting for political effect.

Cooperation Among Consumers

ONE result of the prevailing high prices and the agitation arising therefrom is likely to be the formation of cooperative societies for the benefit of the consumers. Already a housekeepers' cooperative association has been organized in Pittsburg, and probably the idea will be put into practise elsewhere. By buying in large quantities they can get goods at the lowest wholesale prices. The middlemen's profits will be cut out and consumers will be able to purchase supplies at reasonable rates. Where a certain amount of business is divided among a large number of small shops, each with a limited trade, there must inevitably be a lack of economy in the cost of distribution. The expense of unnecessary rent, of clerks and teams idle a considerable portion of the time, must be paid by the customers; and honest customers have also to pay the losses from bad credits. These losses, it is argued, may be avoided by the establishment of a large cooperative center doing business on a cash basis, both in buying and selling.

This cooperative system, if extensively introduced, might at first cause some hardship to small dealers who would be forced out of business. But those best qualified would in many instances find employment under the new plan. It is not, however, a new plan, generally speaking, for it has been tried abroad and found to work admirably. The cooperative stores have proved to be great money-saving institutions and have increased in number yearly. Thousands of dollars heretofore wasted or divided among a large number of intermediate handlers of merchandise have remained in the pockets of the ultimate purchasers. This fact has been well known in this country, but easy conditions here, comparatively speaking, have put off the adoption of the system by Americans. Now that prices are pressing them, it is not surprising that they should avail themselves of the advantages of cooperation.

The Magnet of Gold

CANADA, whose undeveloped wheat fields claimed a very large percentage of the 90,000 home-seekers who went across the line from the United States during the year 1909, appears to be getting ready to offer still another inducement to bring people within her borders. The reports that have been reaching Montreal during the past few weeks regarding the discovery of a new Eldorado in the Porcupine lake country in northern Ontario have not been exaggerated, it is said, if the stories of the first prospectors who are now beginning to straggle back to civilization are to be taken seriously. Already the gold enthusiasm is beginning to take hold of that northland. It is reported that little is talked of but the precious yellow metal and how best to get at it. Matheson, which aspires to be the gateway to the Porcupine country, is about 400 miles north of Toronto. From this point a sleigh road has been built a distance of forty miles to Porcupine lake, and stages make the trip to and fro every day with relays of horses and all the primitive factors that have ever marked the sudden opening of a new gold-mining country.

The history of many another mining town that has sprung up in a day, following the discovery of precious minerals, promises to be repeated in the Canadian far north. A good many sections of the world's map have never attracted much attention until traced in gold. If the first settlers at Jamestown or at Plymouth had discovered a gold mine the additions to their numbers would have been rapid and considerable, without doubt, and they would have gained in population in a short time what by the slow process of agricultural development required a great many years. Indeed, a good number of the early voyagers to America were adventurers who sought the new world for the purpose of getting gold. When it was not forthcoming they returned and spread unfavorable reports that no doubt kept many others from venturing overseas. California, vaguely claimed, under the name of New Albion, by Drake for England in 1579, made slow and uncertain progress until the discovery of gold in Sutter's mill-race in 1847 changed the aspect of affairs. From 1850 to 1855 the population of California increased from 92,000 to 327,000. In another twenty years it had increased to 800,000.

With variations the story is repeated over and over. Penetrating into some far, hidden corner of the land, across plains, over mountains, through canyons that have perhaps known only the presence of wild beast and bird, comes the venturesome, sharp-eyed prospector with pick and shovel and hammer. He digs in the earth, he breaks the rock. His eyes glisten. He stakes his claim. Hundreds follow him. All is hurry and excitement. And the once obscure spot on the map becomes the center toward which all roads lead.

Mr. Ellis to Lead Ohio Republicans

THE political situation in the Buckeye state has been causing President Taft considerable concern, due more or less to alarming reports from members of his party there, and the selection of Wade H. Ellis, assistant to the attorney-general, to lead the Republican campaign in that state will give the chief executive a direct representative in the field. The Republican organization has been somewhat out of tune ever since the election of Theodore E. Burton as United States senator, and the upsetting of the machine of Messrs. C. P. Taft and Walter L. Brown. Mr. Ellis says he consents to go to Ohio in the hope that he may be able to "unify the factions."

Mr. Ellis had been mentioned as a candidate for the governorship to run in opposition to Judson Harmon, the Democrat now holding the place, but his acceptance of the position of state chairman carries with it a pledge that he will not allow the use of his name for Governor. Unusual interest attaches to the coming campaign. It will be waged with vigor, for President Taft realizes that Ohio must be carried by the Republicans next fall, or the party will be given a great setback.

FORTUNATELY for "tag day," it reached New Orleans the same day Mrs. Russell Sage arrived and the three girls that tagged her received a check for $500. It isn't every "it" that is tagged that has the means and the disposition to respond so handsomely.

On the Road Once More

NOT ALL dates are filled, nor is the itinerary completely mapped out, but preliminary to a great northwestern tour of next summer, President Taft has made engagements so far which will in February, March and April take him to New York, to Newark, to Chicago, to Albany, to Bridgeport, to New Haven, to Pittsburg, to Cincinnati, to Louisville, to Indianapolis, to Nashville, and to New York for a second, and possibly a third, time. All of this comes while Congress is still in session, and the invitations are still pouring in upon him from every part of the country. The Alaska tour will take the President through territory which he barely touched during his trip of last summer. Minnesota, the Dakotas, Montana, Idaho, Wyoming, Washington and Oregon will be glad to see him going and coming. The upper Mississippi and upper Missouri river cities, too, will claim a share of his attention.

Whether these movements of the executive will have political significance depends altogether upon the attitude of the country through which he travels toward his administration and his policies. Only those who will not see can have failed to observe the growing discontent in the ranks of his party. To assume that this, or a very large part of it, does not extend to him personally would be folly. The fact is, the Republican sentiment of the country is in recession. The rank and file of the Republican party is dissatisfied with its policies and with its leaders. The party's continuance in power has become monotonous to a large element in its own membership. There is a longing for a change, a reorganization, a new deal. What Mr. Taft attempts to do meets with little approval from those who are highest in the party's councils; his attempts to leave certain things undone meets with less approval in the party ranks.

Withal, there is a strong undercurrent of popular sentiment that not only asks but demands that he shall be heard, that he shall have fair play. Nobody can speak for him as well as he can speak for himself. He is a maker of friends, and his swings around the circle this year may have the effect of winning over to his side the discontented, the dissatisfied and the disappointed. Regarded in this sense, his trips will be full of political significance.
